SUFFERING FROM CHILL.

[illegible]

From Our Own Correspondent.

VALPARAISO, Saturday, Jan. 16, 1858.

[illegible] with the follows of the past. It [illegible] quietly, safely and healthily. Every one [illegible] that it was over. A morning paper, in [illegible] the old year's obituary, says that it leaves Chili a prey to a thousand terrors, the plaything of [illegible] poor, divided against [illegible] harbor in which [illegible] The coup de grace [illegible] was the loss of her new [illegible], on her first voyage [illegible] Chili. News reached us here [illegible] that a Sardinian bark was in distress in the Straits of Magellan, and the Marie-Thérèse, having just arrived from England, where she had built at a cost of over two hundred thousand dollars, was dispatched by the Government to her assistance. She came in sight of the St. George, the distressed vessel, on the morning of the 16th ult., near the bay of Mercy in the Straits, and just as she was on the point of anchoring to tow a hawser off, struck upon a concealed point of rocks and sunk in fifteen minutes. Some of the crew came here, having had time to escape to the bank, where they found the crew in perfectly improper dress for effects of energy that they took [illegible] and arrived here on Sist ult. The loss of this fine vessel of war has thrown no slight damp over all classes of Chilians, since it really [illegible] a fatality attended our little navy. In this category the terrible loss of the Canador, with [illegible] over three hundred, and now within the last two months we have lost the [illegible] Valdivia and Maria Isabel.

We can add to these many shipwrecks of Chilian vessels during the past year. Among them was the Sarah Ann, whose crew was devoured by the natives of Oceanica. But even more terrible has been the severe monetary crisis, which has not [illegible] yet spent its fury, and the political ruin which for a year has threatened our little State. But with all this Chili has much for which to congratulate herself. While every republic on the Continent, not even excepting our own, has been either engulfed in that curse of Spanish America, civil war, or on the verge of intestine commotion, she has quietly and honorably been working her way to that high place among nations which really seems her destiny. In internal improvements she is far [illegible]. During 1857 she inaugurated the Santiago and Valparaiso Railroad, which will open a world of untrodden wealth to her commerce, and will extend it to the banks of the Rio Bio Bio River, where Yankee enterprise has found successful emigration for small steamers. This river [illegible] from the slope of the Cordilleras the rich crops which have made Chili celebrated as a wheat-producing country. A line of telegraph has been established between these same cities, bringing Valparaiso and the capital into closer relationship. Immense public buildings are in course of construction—city docks, railroads, &c., are being planned or are already begun; and, above all, the public spirit of the country has become politically [illegible] who never dreamed that they were capable of [illegible] an idea into language are beginning to loom up, and have become leaders in the great effort to disenthrall their country from the [illegible] leading-strings in which for years it has been struggling. And they will do it.

[illegible] to the shipwrecks. I have long [illegible] repeatedly called your readers' attention to [illegible] the American enterprises offered by a steam navigation of the Straits of Magellan. I would be, in my opinion, and I have emphasized it with no little care, one of the best maritime speculations of the age. A line of tug steamers, with large supplies of provisions, at either end of the Straits, would enable vessels to shorten very materially their voyage around the Horn, furnish themselves with water and provisions for the still long voyage before them, and afford a means of correspondence with their owners. It must be years before the Isthmus can be made a cheap and available route of transportation, and any shortening of the voyage around Cape Horn, which can be accomplished with safety, and will be accompanied by manifest advantages of other kinds, must be of great interest and welcome to the ship-owner. Chili, I have no doubt, particularly now while the terrible lesson she has lately had read to her are fresh in her memory, would gladly aid any enterprise that had for its object the safe and successful navigation of the Straits of Magellan. It has, besides this, long since been contemplated placing a line of steamers between Havre and this port, which would afford speedy means of communicating with Europe from the Straits. I hope you will call attention to this not uninteresting subject.

In the issue of the correspondent of the Mercurio of this city, the writer, dating from New-York, says that, "The pretended outrage upon the American ship Sportsman has not produced any of those terrible denunciations from the Press of the United States, so common in cases between us and South American States." He further adds that the TIMES, through some anonymous correspondent, has been the only one who has taken much notice of it, and attributes the eagerness of said correspondent to an interest in the cargo or ship. The said correspondent being my own good self, I beg leave to say that I have not the remotest interest in said ship or in anything connected with her; and at the same time, beg leave further to convey to the TIMES the thanks of the reading community of Valparaiso for its notice of one of the most high-handed outrages that has ever been committed against our merchant marine and our flag.

The news which reached us by the last steamer of WALKER's being made prisoner by the Wabash, has been received with no little favor here—I mean it has been considerably talked of; but prone as the Press of Chili is to vituperation on anything American, scarcely a word (unless from the Mercurio) has been said of the handsome conduct of our Government in quashing the fillibustering movement.

By-the-way, when on the subject of fillibusterism, the Peruvian Minister, who has been here for some weeks on a visit of sojourn, received letters from his Government, per last mail, announcing the discovery of all the movements of a new expedition against Peru, under the auspices of General RUBINSTEIN and VIVANCO. One LUIS LOPEZ, a naturalized American German, has entered into contracts with the Chiefs of the Revolution, by which they bind themselves in untold quantities of guano to him and his brother in return for two ships to be brought from the United States, and employed for disembarking at a given point on the Coast of Peru, and then joining themselves with VIVANCO's forces. ROSASQUE, who is here, admits the truth of all this, and says that it has been long in preparation. An attempt is being made to procure fuel for the VIVANCO war-steamer Apurimac, but the Captain of the Port has until now prevented its success.

Señor Don FRANCISCO BOURMAN, the new Spanish Minister, was received in Santiago on the 31st ult. by the President. The British Minister will be here next week, to embark on her British Majesty's ship Monarch, Admiral BARON, who is only awaiting the arrival of the new Admiral on the Geagea, ed, to return to England.

Madame ANNA BISHOP has been delighting Valparaiso audiences in Opera during two weeks past, and has been most warmly received. She has lost none of that charming manner and excellence of voice which has made her such a favorite in the United States.

In the steamer of to-day there goes to England M. COMPERTZ-SEWELL, brother of the celebrated [illegible] of that name. Mr. C. has been living a year in Santiago, and has so won upon the affections of the Government that they are sending him over to prepare the way for the Minister Plenipotentiary, who is to negotiate in that monetary country the seven million loan, lately decreed by this Government. It seems that nothing can be done in Chili without a vast deal of exhibition and corresponding outlay. This loan might all have been taken in this city. HUTZ, GRUNING & Co., who are the agents of ROTHCHILDS, offered to take four millions of it, and at infinitely better figures than can now be obtained in England or Hamburg. But the necessary display was requisite; and while a French economist is traveling over Europe, inquiring who will lend Chili seven millions—Chili, whose credit is equal to our own, and deservedly so—her internal improvements are languishing for want of funds which were at her command. Besides, why show her poverty in men capable of undertaking such a mission, by sending a "Johnny Crapaud," when she has family known a twelvemonth.

One of the morning papers has a stinging article, which I send you, going to prove how favorable is the degeneracy of the Anglo-American race, and how nobly superior is that of time-honored Spanish America: "Nobility of soul," "generosity and truthfulness of character," (God save the mark!) and the like are compared to the innumerable degrading leveling-with-the-brute-creation epithets that are applied to us. It is earnestly complained of us that we do not take as much care of our breed of children as we do of horses, cattle, &c. The article is borrowed from that paragon of journals, the Echo of the Pacific, but it is mentioned here only to show the ravenous Ghoul-like appetite these papers have for any dirty tit-bit served up by their compeers. And in proof of the progressive spirit of the Spanish race—and I am writing from a point where I is the most so—let me give you an instance now occurring. Nearly two years since there died in Santiago a wealthy Englishman named BROWN, who left to this city two hundred thousand dollars with which to build a mammoth and much-needed Hospital, upon the sole condition that the city would subscribe another two hundred thousand. The time he gave them in which to do it was two years, now nearly expired, and not a step has been taken. Who will compare Anglo-Americanism to Hispano-Americanism after that? As regards the care they take in rearing children, let me give you a single item. The mortality, or I should rather say the number of persons buried, (for many die in Spanish America who know no knell, nor coffin, nor shroud,) in one single city, the capital, in the month of December, 1856, was 1,011. The report for the same month of the year just ended is 831. Of the latter 509 were children. You will remember this mortality is in a single city of hardly one hundred thousand inhabitants. In this city the mortality is frightful. Nor is this uncommon in Spanish America. Chili is probably the most healthy of all the Republics. What, then, must be the condition of the rest? So a moment of attention to the beam we read of, and then hours, if you choose, to the analysis of the mote in the eye of the Anglo-American.

A word now on politics and I'll let go your button-hole. The Cabinet has been reinforced by two new Ministers, both of whom are good men. RAFAEL SOTOMAYOR takes the Portfolio of Justice and Public Instruction, and MATIAS OVALLE that of Hacienda. The qualification for voters, (reading and writing, &c.,) are being gone through in the various departments preparatory to the Congressional elections in March. The Liberal, organ of the party of that name, made its appearance but once. Its editors, in their political creed, as given in the first and only number, offended half the party by preaching too broad a doctrine; the party disbanded, and is now quietly mixing in with the several incongruous elements that surround it. Gen. BULNES, the old war-horse of the South, who made the present incumbent President at the cost of oceans of blood in 1851, has returned from the quiet of his Hacienda, after coalescing with his old enemy, Gen. CRUZ, and taking a Hannibalian kind of oath, went to the Capitol, was endorsed by the Pelucon Party, who number in their ranks the aristocracy and the wealth and the infinitely more powerful element, the clergy, buckled on his harness and places himself at their head. I now predict to you that either Gen. BULNES, or his favorite, whoever he may be, will be the next President of Chili. I do not doubt, however, that the next Congress will be composed of many of the most talented of the young men of Chili, and there are many such in the Republic; men who would do credit to any Congress, and whose entrance into the legislative halls will mark the beginning of a new era in this country. From this city we will send VICTORINO LASTARRIA, who, though a young man, has few equals in South America.

Business has been exceedingly dull here for weeks past. The news from England per last mail, and that for weeks from the United States, has rendered our money market terribly tight. The Government has aided us in some degree, by depositing $300,000 in gold and silver in the city bank, and in making heavy advances towards railroads, &c. The prudence of their measures has been severely called in question. Notwithstanding all this we have in the harbor this morning 17 vessels. Among the Americans are Mary E. Balch, Morning Glory, Haynaye, Lizzie, Emeline, Atlas, Bertha.

The crops of this year are now being cut, and are the largest ever known in Chili. There will be less loss in them also, owing to the introduction, during the last year, of numerous reaping and threshing machines.

INTERESTING FROM HAVANA.

From OUR Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Tuesday, Feb. 23, 1858.

The friends and partisans of Gen. SANTA ANNA are expecting the arrival of the English steamer from St. Thomas, on which vessel they suppose he has taken passage for this place, whence he will proceed in a Spanish war steamer to assume the presidency for the "last time." It was first contemplated to send him in the Bencauela, but she having sailed yesterday, he will have to go in another of more moderate dimensions. Quarters have been prepared for him at the house of a distinguished Mexican, and it is now a settled fact that he will return. What part Spain may play in the game is hard to tell at present, but it is generally believed that men and vessels of war have been promised in case of hostility on the part of the opposing faction. Spain will receive her full claims by virtue of a new treaty, the rough draft of which has been made here. No one mentions the armed expedition against Vera Cruz, as SANTA ANNA's return removes all necessity for the employment of Her Majesty's troops. The Marion took out a large number of exiles that were "biding their time" in Havana.

The Spanish squadron has returned from its cruise in the Gulf. The papers pronounce the discipline and efficiency of the men perfectly satisfactory, for which remarkable accomplishment they deserve universal approbation. I would suggest one thing to General CONCHA and the Admiral, now that he is perfecting the sailors in the exercise of the "big guns,"—the importance o schooling the officers and commanders of the vessels in the art of navigating. The Bencauela, in leaving the harbor yesterday morning, was run aground in the widest and deepest part of the entrance, owing to the bungling of some one of her officers. It looked too bad to see the noble ship treated so roughly, particularly when the departure of the Wabash, a vessel twice as large, could make such a fine appearance. However, the great Spanish screw frigate was rescued from her perilous situation, and proceeded on her voyage. The pilot, as usual, will bear all the blame and receive a sound thrashing for having grounded her.

The sad death of the Marquis DE MALMESINA has brought the opera to a sudden close, inasmuch as the public would not be satisfied with Madame FRESCHOLINI alone. Madame GARBANIGA has received during her husband's illness every mark of sympathy and assistance from her admirers. He died of small-pox, but the real nature of his disease was not known until a few hours before his death, the physician taking it to be yellow fever. The Government, at the earnest petition of the artistes, has allowed them to rescind the contract for the remainder of the season, and the whole troupe will probably leave here on the Cahawba, on her next trip to New-York. I have been told by well-informed parties that MAPLESON has realized $68,000 over and above all his expenses, besides paying MARTY a considerable sum for last year's lease of the theatre. Next season the Tacon stock company intends to send for a company to Europe, to be composed of the best singers that can be procured. A colorated Cuban pianist has undertaken the commission. MAPLESON also leaves us with the intention of paying another visit to his "Chere Havana." Miss RAMOS remains with us to sing Zarzuelas, for which her voice is better adapted than for opera. The Spaniards are strong in their determination to support her.

Last Sunday the schooner Angelina and brig Gov. Parris sailed from this port, bound to the Coast of Africa. Several other vessels are reported as fitting out for the same destination. Since the arrival of the brig Telegraph with 600, I have heard of no other cargoes being landed, though it is reported that a large French propeller is expected with a lot of the so-called apprentices, but which will be gladly received as slaves.

Yesterday being WASHINGTON's birthday, all the Yankee vessels in port hoisted their colors. Some of the most patriotic of the Americans celebrated the day with a champagne dinner at Guanabacoa. Most of the strangers have been frightened away by the deaths of several from the fever, so that the season may be considered as fairly over. The hotel-keepers will be ruined.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

CHARLESTON, Sunday, Feb. 28.

The steamship Isabel, from Havana and Key West Feb. 25, has arrived at this port. Gen. TOWNS, of the United States Army, and the Maretzek Opera Troupe, are passengers. There is no news of interest.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Nominations Confirmed by the Senate—The Postmaster at Chicago—Select Committee on Mr. Matteson's Case, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 1.

Many nominations were sent to the Senate to-day, including that of Dr. JONES, as Postmaster at Washington, and B. F. WASHINGTON as Collector at San Francisco. There is no nomination for Marshal yet, but it is now said that ROBERT GUILE, of Georgetown, will be appointed.

The nomination of COOK, as Postmaster at Chicago, was considered, and opposed on the ground that the nominee is incompetent, and a defaulter. The matter was discussed with considerable acrimony, but there was no vote.

The Select Committee on MATTESON's case, announced to-day, is considered very friendly to him. A majority of them are already committed against his expulsion. S.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 1.

The Senate in Executive Session to-day confirmed a large number of appointments made during the recess.

Dr. WM. JONES has been nominated Postmaster of Washington, in place of BERRETT, whose commission has expired.

The nomination of Mr. COOK as Postmaster of Chicago was warmly debated for two hours. The discussion involved questions concerning his moral integrity. Pending the question, the Executive Session adjourned.

Hon. GEO. ASHMUN was before the Tariff Investigating Committee this morning. According to all accounts, he said he knew nothing whatever concerning the matters about which he had been interrogated.

The Matteson Investigating Committee will hold their first meeting on Wednesday.

Gen. WHITFIELD, in a letter received to-day, says that Gen. LANE's party has served upon him a notice to quit Kansas, threatening that unless he shall do so that he (LANE) will assassinate him. Gen. W. adds that he has sent his family out of the Territory, but that he himself will remain. Gen. W. also says that house burnings and murders are frequent. In the County opposite St. Joseph, Mo., Mr. FORMAN and his family have been driven out, and several other persons living there killed; also one in the County above.

It is calculated by prominent Democrats that the Kansas and Minnesota bills combined will pass the Senate by six or eight, and the House by about fifteen majority.

Mr. SAMUEL MEDARY was to-day confirmed by the Senate as Postmaster at Columbus.

XXXVth CONGRESS.....First Session.

SENATE.... WASHINGTON, Monday, March 1.

A communication was presented from the Legislature of Kentucky, offering a regiment of Volunteers for the Utah Army.

Mr. HENDERSON, of TEXAS, appeared, was qualified, and took his seat.

Several memorials from the Legislature of Iowa, asking for lands for railroad purposes, were received.

Mr. KING reported a bill granting the Rome Arsenal to the State of New-York.

Mr. GREEN called up the bill for the admission of Kansas.

Messrs. GWIN and BROCKENBRIDGE objected, as the Pacific Railroad bill had priority in the order of business.

It was decided that the bill should be taken up.

Mr. GREEN, of Missouri, gave notice that he should offer a substitute providing for the admission of the States of Minnesota and Kansas together, hoping thereby to expedite business. He then proceeded to advocate the report of the majority of the Committee, remarking that the leading and controlling facts stated in that document, could not be successfully controverted. An attempt had been made in the minority reports to evade some of them, but they stood unassailed. He then passed to a personal explanation touching the statements in regard to the action of the Committee published in the New-York Tribune, which asserted that the majority of the Committee made a positive promise to Messrs. DOUGLAS and COLLAMER not to report till the succeeding Monday, and subsequently violated that agreement. He proceeded to show the falsity of this statement by a detail of the facts in the case.

A discussion of some length ensued between Messrs. GREEN and DOUGLAS, when the former proceeded. He said he had a substitute for the bill reported by the majority of the Committee, which he would offer at the proper time.

This substitute provided for the admission of Kansas and Minnesota together, the object being to expedite the business before the Senate, so that other important questions might come up for consideration. He then argued the legality of the Kansas Constitution, contending that it was Republican in form, and was the legal choice of the people. The population of Kansas is sufficient to entitle her to one Representative, and the Constitution of the United States prescribes no specific number of inhabitants for the admission of a State. He referred to the unsettled state of the Territory as a powerful and overwhelming reason for the admission, for it would give peace and quietness to the Territory. He had received information to-day of a murder committed by parties opposed to the Lecompton Constitution, and that General WHITFIELD had been driven from the Territory under threats of assassination. This, he said, was the reason of the absence of the Federal officers from Kansas. It is useless to cry "peace," when there will be none until Kansas comes into the Union.

Mr. COLLAMER, of Vermont, followed. He referred to the Missouri Compromise as having settled the Slavery agitation, and it being a fair bargain, he thought it unjust to the South, after receiving her portion of the advantage, to repudiate the compact. Who believed, he asked, in 1854, that Slavery would exist in Kansas? It was a well-settled principle that the power to regulate implied the power to prohibit. Mr. C. quoted instances to show where this power had been exercised, and referred to a case in Mississippi in 1706, as in point. He defended the Emigrant Aid Societies, denying that the emigrants from the North went to Kansas merely to vote, without designing to stay there. He referred to the fraudulent elections carried by interlopers from Missouri, and to other gross outrages into which the Government had never examined. Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 1.

Messrs. Seward, Harris, of Illinois, Grow, Curtis and Bishop were appointed the Special Committee to consider the resolutions for the expulsion of M. MATTESON.

Mr. HARRIS was excused from serving, at his own request.

Resolutions were received from the Legislature of Washington Territory, declaring that Governor STEVENS' proclamation of martial law was patriotic and required for the peace of the Territory.

Mr. SWEENEY, of Ohio, offered a resolution which was adopted, calling for information as to whether any money has been paid from the Treasury for the year ending June 30, 1857, for the expenses of the Legislature, or alleged Legislature of Kansas. And if so, under what act, and from what fund.

Mr. FLORENCE, of Pennsylvania, presented a memorial from the Marine Underwriters, at Philadelphia, against any alteration of the law establishing the light-house system. Referred.

The House then discussed at some length the bill for the reorganization of the clerks and other employes of the House, pending a decision upon which an adjournment took place.

The Harney and Sumner Difficulty—The Tariff Investigation—Expected Trouble from the Heintz and Grow Affair—Lecompton—Mexican Affairs, &c.

From our own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Feb. 27.

The charges preferred recently by Gen. HARNEY against Col. E. V. SUMNER, will probably be withdrawn. The sentiment among the army officers is quite unanimous against the General for having preferred them; the more so because it is not considered that his brevet rank of General constitutes a sufficient reason for his refusal to meet Col. SUMNER in the field.

The failure of the witness WALKER to answer the questions of the Tariff Investigating Committee, it is understood, has not succeeded in preventing exposures connected with that subject. On the contrary, it is said that the Committee are developing many important facts.

The Country will regret to learn that the events which disgraced the House of Representatives in connection with the recent difficulty between Messrs. HAYNE and GROW, are still rankling in the breasts of some of the participants, and that there is yet danger of trouble to arise out of them. The two principals in that affair, as soon as opportunity presented itself, frankly squared accounts before the House. Mr. HAYNE, especially, by manly confession that he was the aggressor, and an unequivocal expression of his apologetic regrets therefor, won the respect of many not usually accounted among his friends, and his dignified silence about the whole affair from that time to the present, indicates a sensible appreciation of the propriety of letting it pass, as one that had better be forgotten by all parties.

Unfortunately there are others who do not manifest the same philosophy. At least, one Southern gentleman, whose courage nobody doubts, is very restive in relation to the matter, and seems to think that something more is necessary to be done in order to efface a blow which he received in the melee from one who supposed him engaged in a free fight against Grow and his friends; and there are floating rumors that Mr. POTTER of Wisconsin will be, or has been, called upon to apologize publicly, or fight. Assuredly it will be better to let the veil fall over that entire transaction. Nobody supposes that any one is dishonored by a blow struck under misapprehension. If this be not so, then Hon. REUBEN DAVIS, of Mississippi, also, would be bound to take "pistols and coffee" with Grow, because the latter accidentally struck him in the face with a jerk of his head. The whole affair was a sudden ebullition—a Kilkenny shindy—all in mistake; and the honor and good name of all parties will be subserved by letting it rest just where it stands. Any other course will only give it a personal consequence which it does not merit, and aggravate matters rather than improve them.

We have no new facts in relation to the progress of the Lecompton swindle. Although those who are nearest the President persist in the boastful declaration that they have the matter all fixed, and that they have a certain and reliable majority in the House for the Lecompton fraud, they neither attempt to hurry the question before the body, nor to name the men whose already declared scruples against the scheme have been quieted by ample applications of Executive patronage. The thirty days within which Mr. BUCHANAN declared he would carry the measure through the House have already nearly expired,—but thus far I am well satisfied that its progress has been backward. The unanimity with which public sentiment at the North condemns the Lecompton scheme has alarmed many of those who voted against the Select Investigating Committee,—and some of these are now exceedingly doubtful of the propriety of committing the unpardonable sin of voting at last for the consummation of the Lecompton fraud. The cause of Lecompton is one not calculated to gain converts by delay; on the contrary it can only lose by time, examination and discussion.

The effort will unquestionably be made in both hou es to amend the Kansas bill, by the insertion of a clause providing that the Legislature shall again submit the question of Slavery to the popular vote, under such checks and safeguards as will insure a fair and full expression of the popular will. This will be resisted by the Lecompton leaders, and if it shall be engrafted upon the bill at last, will insure the vote of a large body of Lecomptonites against the entire measure. Movements of this character will afford abundant opportunity to Northern men, who have been a little pliant heretofore, to take a firm and consistent stand with the advocates of justice and popular rights, against a measure which has no attractions for the mutineers except it carries Slavery into Kansas, and fastens it there beyond present remedy.

Mr. HASKIN's Committee to investigate the circumstances under which the Government purchase of the Wilkins or Willett's Point property was made, had its first organized meeting yesterday, and examined Governor FLOYD and Captain WAGNER of the Engineer corps. The evidence, of course, is kept confidential by the Committee, but from what I learn outside it is safe to anticipate some extraordinary and ugly developments. The end will probably show that the sale of the Fort Snelling property at a ridiculously low figure, and the purchase of the Willett's Point, and of certain New-Bedford property at four times its value, all constituted grist for the same mill. Friend SEWELL has already been convicted of his connection with the Fort Snelling property, and Sub-Treasurer JOHN J. CISCO will not hesitate to swear that he paid $115,000 on the Willet's Point property to the order of the same individual. But I do not doubt that Mr. HASKIN will make thorough work of his investigations and bring out all the facts in good time.

What's in the wind again with reference to Collector SCHELL, the Softs and the Wood organ in New-York? Geo. H. FUNKS, Judge RUSSELL and ISAAC V. FOWLER are all understood to be operating here against the Collector. Mr. SCHELL is evidently destined to have a long battle of it, do what he may to conciliate the men who are pursuing him. Ex-Senator DICKINSON, too, has come under the ban of the aforesaid organ, quite recently. What can be the matter? Has the Hard-Shell ex-Senator withdrawn his recommendation of FLUSSER for that Bordeaux Consulate, or honestly confessed that he don't know anything good of the appointee? Surely, he has been guilty of some piece of honesty or other, else he could not have achieved the enmity of the "Jack Ketch of Editors," whom he had attempted to serve.

GERRIT N. SANDERS is here again, looking after his own interests in general, eating good oysters with an Ostend appetite, and smiling satisfactorily upon those who predict his ostracism by the President. If I were a sporting-man I would wager a dozen of Mumm's best that his nomination goes to the Senate and is confirmed.

Miss FANNY MORANT, the talented tragedienne, whose versatile genius always commands the suffrages of Metropolitan patrons of the drama, closed a brief but successful engagement here last evening. Miss M., I believe, has not appeared before a New-York audience during several years past, and is little known therefore among you; but she possesses true merit, which will assure her success whenever she is brought out upon your boards under favorable auspices. She has a fine physique and is a studious and painstaking artiste, doing everything she undertakes well, stirring up the fountains of passion and feeling among her auditors, and avoiding altogether the exaggeration and rant which too often prove the most effective antidote to the deepest tragedy. In Lucretia Borgia and characters of that cast, she has few if any superiors. Last evening she played Meg Merrilies and Mrs. Haller with great success,—but not more than she achieved the previous evening as Constance in the "Love Chase," and Kate O'Brien in "Perfection." She commences an engagement on Monday evening in Boston, where she will doubtless prove a decided attraction. S.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Feb. 28, 1858.

The Lecomptonites are evidently alarmed, else they would not have resolved in caucus to tack the bill for the admission of Minnesota into the Union, upon the proposition to press Kansas in with the Lecompton Constitution. Of course this movement is nothing more nor less than a threat to the friends of Minnesota, that, clear and unobjectionable as is her application, it shall not be entertained except as a condition of the consummation of the repulsive Kansas fraud. The effect of this trick should be to unite all true representatives of Northern constituencies against a cause which relies for success upon such miserable artifices. No one can doubt that the independent proposition for the admission of Minnesota would be carried by an overwhelming majority whenever presented for the vote; and all the friends of Minnesota, who are opposed to Lecompton, have to do, is to reject the unnatural duet, if Kansas and Minnesota are tied together. This done, the separate and distinct proposition for the admission of Minnesota, in accordance with the terms of her enabling act, would be carried at once. Let no man suppose for a moment, therefore, that he can be excused from voting for the full fruition of the Kansas swindle, in the idea that it is necessary for the advancement of justice to Minnesota.

Admiral ZEBINE, of Mexico, with whom I had the conversation upon which I based my letter of Thursday last in relation to Mexican affairs, speaks very broken English, and is difficult to understand. To this fact he attributes some slight inaccuracies in my summary of his statements; and he requests me to say that he did not intend to be understood to speak disparagingly of COMONFORT, who is his friend, and for whom he has the highest respect. He wishes also to be relieved of the statement that it was he who released JUAREZ from Prison. That he was released by a force of 200 men, is stated, is true; but Admiral ZEBINE does not claim to have had an agency in that matter. One point more: It was not ZEBINE, but an Adjutant, who arrested ZULOAGA, at COMONFORT's quarters, and by his orders, although the Admiral was present upon that occasion.

A movement is on foot for a reform in the system of appointing Chaplains in the United States service, and numerous memorials have been sent to Congress upon the subject. The memorialists represent that in the present system of Government Chaplainships are divers anomalies and defects, such as the following, viz.: That Chaplains are appointed to their office, without any formal and sufficient inquiry into their professional standing and qualifications. That Chaplains are appointed for life, and no provision is made for retiring any who may become superannuated or otherwise disabled for the duties of their office; and thus it becomes possible that the whole number authorized by law may consist of such, to the entire prevention of religious and moral teaching to the Army and the Navy. That no report is required of the amount of service rendered by any Chaplain. That the designation of Chaplains to particular posts or vessels, is made without due regard to their specific adaptation to such post or vessel.

In view of all this, the memorialists pray for an increase of a number of Chaplains authorized for the Army and for the Navy, upon the principle that a Christian Government should furnish adequate religious instruction to to those who, in Government service, are deprived of it. To require that no person shall be eligible to the office of Chaplain, who shall not produce formal and official testimonials of his good religious and ecclesiastical standing, and of his qualifications for the special duties of the office. To make no more life appointments to the Chaplaincy of either Army or Navy. To retire upon a reasonable salary such Chaplains now in commission as may be by reason of age or infirmity disabled from effective service. To require of all Chaplains to either Army or Navy, stated reports of the service rendered, together with statistical and other information connected therewith, and that an abstract of the whole may accompany the President's Message. To designate Chaplains to particular posts or vessels, with due regard to the matter of their adaptedness to such posts or vessels, and to secure to each Chaplain so designated, all proper facilities for the stated religious instruction of the men, and for the conduct of divine worship among them. The subject certainly is deserving attention. S.

The Maryland Legislature.

THE MORMONS.

[illegible] Brigham Young to Become Prophet, Priest and King to the Mormons.

[illegible] Our Own Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, Feb. 4, 1858.

In the time of Joe Smith, the Mormon Prophet that personage found considerable difficulty in persuading his most devoted disciples [illegible] to go on certain missions, or to give adequate pecuniary aid to the cause. He would manage to stay [illegible] and retain their support, by being [illegible] of a new revelation. These revelations were, generally, little more of argument interspersed with authoritative assertions, whereas the inspiration, [illegible] fattened to gladness by the Lord's special attention, were answered [illegible] Some of these, along with [illegible] of a more spiritual cast, and others that [illegible] had his head disciples to be delivered [illegible] have been gathered into a printed volume, called [illegible] of Doctrine and Covenants," which is [illegible] next to the Mormon Bible. In it one gets a glimpse of the foundation doctrines of the present Church, but a perusal of the outside revelations is necessary before one fully sees Mormonism, glaring with the Yankee signet of "dollars [illegible] and the motive of last decision." Since Barney's death, the occasions upon which Salem and Yokohama attempted to manufacture direct revelations have been few, and, unlike the Prophet's half-persuasive inspirations, his are more commanding, unmitigated, with rhetoric or argument. About the last of the kind, directing the present location of the Mormons, was given forth the [illegible] of the first company of [illegible] to the present site of Great Salt Lake City. By deviating from the direct assertion of revelations, Young has rather increased [illegible] his power over the Mormons. He possesses considerable caution and judgment, and [illegible] such unfortunate events as the ravages of the crickets and grasshoppers caused him to [illegible] sufficiently sanctimonious to quiet the voices of hunger, while at the same time, he triumphantly pointed to his former exhortations to have the surplus grain hoarded instead of trafficked to the Gentiles.

Young is of a more visionary character, and, [illegible] gives the outlines of a prophetic [illegible] clear, however, of offence to Young by avoiding new theories. As for [illegible] supposed to be guilty of revelations by saying that what urgent business [illegible] on. The Twelve are very fond of their little revelations suited to their particular exigencies, [illegible] Brigham's ear; but are [illegible] to encourage the doctrinal patchwork which in his patience, and none of their [illegible] considered aught else than theories [illegible] of by him. It will, therefore, be [illegible] Young, although he maintains a certain [illegible], and makes no vain boasts of his power of receiving revelations, has so wrought [illegible] authority as to occupy a higher appreciation in the index of divinity than Joe Smith in his palmiest day. The greater body of the Mormons receive the assertions of Young as coming from a mind continually illumed by revelation, and according to the prominence he gives those assertions so are they exalted in the eyes of his disciples. Nothing is clearer, then, than the fact that Young, when he puts forth any [illegible] concerning the future movements of the Mormons, has fully considered its [illegible] if practicable.

In the winter of 1856-7 I heard Brigham Young deliver sermons in the Tabernacle, wherein he [illegible] the new settlement, particularly that of Sanpete, [illegible], and tried to throw a light of sanctity upon the individual misfortunes of his disciples. The pith of the sermon was contained in the following remarks: "Now, brethren, mark my words, [illegible] any portion of this people find a place where the soil is excellent and the climate mild, [illegible] in peace, where they can live with but little work, there they will find persecution and will be driven out. It has been so in all the places where this people have sojourned, and will be so in any place [illegible] with more favorable circumstances to be found here. And I tell you, brethren, that if this people again move, it will not be westward into California, nor North into Oregon, nor South into Mexico." This was spoken with an emphasis and tone of voice that seemed to give it the intentional cast of a rigid prophecy, and, as such, it is regarded by the majority of half of Utah's population. From the last sentence, the only conclusion [illegible] that the next immigration would be eastward. And that such a migration is the general intention of the Mormons, when they finally get Utah, I will now endeavor to show.

Before the Mormons abandoned Jackson County, Mo., a chosen number secretly laid the foundation of the future Temple, and then, carefully covering all traces of their work with dirt, planted it over. The location of this spot is held as a church secret. The time is shortly returning to build this Temple is continually fostered by new anecdotes, passing current from time to time, to the effect that the Lord is softening the hearts of the people of Jackson County, who desire their return; that some of the present possessors refuse to sell the land wrested from the Mormons, professing to only hold it in trust until their return, &c.

Those fragment off-shoots from Mormonism, known as Rigdonites, Strangites, Wm. Smithites, Gladdenites, &c., though differing as to the true successor of Joe Smith, look back to him as their foundation pillar, and forward to the Jackson County Temple. And it is said that the number of Mormons yearly emigrating in the States is large; while returning emigrants bring the report finding in those localities where the Mormons formerly had their head-quarters, hundreds secretly pro[illegible] Mormonism, and awaiting the gathering. This kindliness to religious views is nothing new in the world, but the unity of Mormon designs is worthy of notice in this connection. The individual object of a pilgrimage to Utah is to undergo the secret ceremony known as "receiving endowments," after which each Mormon considers himself duly ticketed for Zion. Some of the men turn again to the States to bide the good time. Two years ago an old gentleman quietly proposed [illegible] back five hundred wagons to Jackson County, and appointed a secret rendezvous in the mountains. Two weeks after his departure, Young, [illegible] emphatically remarked, "He is still [illegible]." Among Young's arguments for the [illegible] together, and build towns in [illegible] mode, is one that thus they are perfected [illegible] not only in religious knowledge and virtue, but also, in the matter of architecture, which will be an essential thing in Zion.

A leading Mormon once informed me that the causes that should bring the Saints back to Jackson County would not be of a hostile nature, but the result of a softening of Gentile feelings towards them, causing many of the latter to embrace Mormonism, polygamy, wives and all. This does not, however, accord with the sentiments of the majority of Mormons, who, with desires, no doubt, equal to their belief, point to a bloody end of Gentile domination; besides, in view of Mormon conduct and bigotry, it places the Christian forbearance of the Gentiles too high, even for a miracle. Again, the leaders inform the people that the inner part of Utah will reappear in the East, and ravage its fields until the rich men of the world shall come to Utah, and give their gold for its weight of grain; non-contributors to Zion's golden movement will, it is likely, be excluded.

It may be claimed that the Mormons will be content to quietly await some special miracle that shall bring them back to Jackson County; such, however, is not in accordance with Young's teachings, or his disciples' past practice. His maxim is "The Lord helps those who will not help themselves;" and this maxim explains the prosperity of Mormonism, its follies and its virtues.

In all of the numerous Mormon sermons I have heard at their meetings, and in all of their acts, I can find no preparation for any future migration to any other point of the compass than East. The Salmon River station has never been, but, considered a Mormon settlement, it is a sort of Botany Bay, established for the double purpose of punishing men who are too sensually eager to carry out the doctrine of polygamy, and securing an influence among the Oregon Indians. Men overstepping the bounds of propriety in their desire to obtain wives, are sent on long missions to this place, and refused the company of white females, in hopes they will marry squaws. As Kimball remarked to some of them, "Brethren, we are determined to bring you to it." Beyond the boundary line of Utah, no Northern settlement has been made, although, by only traveling 120 miles from Great Salt Lake city, the Mormons could have availed themselves of the free grants of land in Oregon. The location of one hundred families in Carson and Washoe Valleys was to serve some other object than permanent settlement; and the title of missionaries was applied to the appointees. The establishment of a station in New Mexico, called Los Vegas, was for the purpose of working the lead mines discovered there. No attempt has been made to explore the Southern country. In 1856, when Thomas S. Williams, then a Mormon merchant, endeavored to organize an expedition to traverse the same region of country now being explored by Lieut. Ives, he met with such opposition from the Mormon leaders as to force him to abandon the idea.

Of all things the Mormons least understand, one is political principles. Although they all prate about constitutional rights, very few of them know anything about the Constitution of the United States. They have shut themselves up in a contracted circle of illiberal theological views, and outside of that they recognize no point of reason. The very few books they possess are their own doctrinal works. Aside from private affairs, the doctrines and interests of the Church are the sole topics of fireside and street conversation. No political element exists, because Young allows it nothing to feed upon. He selects, prior to each election, the civil officers whom he wishes elected, and these are the only candidates. Once, some of the candidates being objectionable, an opposition ticket was brought out, with unexceptional Mormon names replacing those of the obnoxious individuals; but Young soon forced this ticket to be withdrawn; since then he has had no opposition in this line. At the election each ballot is numbered, and each voter's name is placed opposite the number of his ballot in a book as he votes. Thus all republican expression of opinion is circumvented. Nor is Young content with delegating persons to carry out his will; he generally likes to have a close supervision of their labors. It is so at each legislative session, and was so at the Constitutional Convention two years ago. When the latter body was about to finish with the adoption of a Constitution, Young was present by invitation, and forced amendments with all the arrogance of a bitter partisan leader. People who, in sight of the present progress and necessities of political compact, cast aside the all-sustaining principles of individual independence, are fit to become blind slaves of some cunning leader. The cringing subjects of a despotic Prince, or the most bigoted worshiper of the Pope of Rome, are not held by a more slavish tenure, for they possess certain acknowledged and unalterable rights, while the Mormons hold themselves subject always to the immediate will of Brigham Young, believing, as they do, that what he does is a divine necessity. It is not uncommon to hear such language as this piece of blasphemy from Mormon lips: "Brigham Young is my God. He is as good a God as I want. He is the only God to whom I must look, and whom I must obey." I am not sure but that the secret revelations of Mormonism appoint Young to an earthly godhead.

Enough has been intimated for Young to know that the arrest and punishment of himself and confederates is contemplated by the Government. No one acquainted with his character will believe that he can be quietly captured. He will exhaust all the power and resources at his command, even to the last fanatic life, ere he yields up his ambitious dignities and hopes. He knows that with one backward step his power goes into the abyss of oblivion; his only resource is onward for life or ruin. To retreat from his mountain settlements would be as demoralizing as a series of defeats. How he will be supported by his followers can be judged from those facts I have heretofore presented.

I consider it but hardly necessary for me to say that but little reliance can be placed in the reports lately received from Los Angelos, to the effect that the San Bernardino Mormons were returning. I fear we will soon hear, however, of much suffering among our troops in their Winter quarters.

MAHOMET.

THE ARMY.

The St. Louis Leader publishes a voluminous correspondence from the head-quarters of the Utah Expedition at Camp Scott. We copy some interesting portions:

HARDSHIPS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Dec. 16.—Cold weather has fairly set in with a vengeance, and the north wind comes howling down from the Utah Mountains with incredible bitterness. Col. Eckard, Lieut. and Adjutant Hill, and Lieut. Dessella are busily occupied in drilling the officers and non-commissioned officers in the manual and platoon exercise of the rifle, and seem to be well pleased with the attention and progress of their recruits. Eli Dupree, a mountaineer, who was sent back to Laramie a month or six weeks ago with dispatches by Col. Johnston, arrived in the Head-quarters camp to-day. He reports the snow as nowhere altogether impassable for pack animals, but still difficult to overcome in many places, and especially in the South Pass of the Rocky Mountains and the Rocky Ridge, and that he had been obliged to abandon their wagons and take to packing. He mentions nothing else of importance. Our new house, for we have worked like any quantity of sticks breaking, is finished, chimneys and all, and to-night we took possession of it. It is a first rate little cabin, sixteen feet by fourteen, six feet high in the walls, constructed of heavy solid cottonwood logs, (my shoulders will ache at the mere mention of them ever again, as we had to carry them instead of hauling them with a team,) and the chimney is a complete gem. It does not smoke, and would stand a round or two from a siege gun, I almost think, it is so compactly put up. Our canvas arrangement was the best in the lower camp, but this bangs the iron-despised wagon sheet fixing. No one in all the command has one anything like so good. In consequence of an unconstitutional (to some, at least, but, thank goodness! not to me,) interference with the sale of whisky and other intoxicating beverages by the powers that be, we could not have a "house-warming" in the usual acceptation of the term, but in my idea some good tea, albeit minus sugar or milk, answered very well. If it will now only have the complaisance to snow like a rat with its foot in a trap, and blow likewise a fitting accompaniment to the snow, we will be the jollicst set of beggars out, at finding ourselves able to bid defiance to all changes of weather. For my part, I have been sleeping in a wagon since we came here, and as a bed-chamber of that description is neither air not wind nor water nor snow-tight when the cover is so old as mine, I have found it rather airy with the thermometer every night and morning from 10° below zero to some unknown quantity that way. Joking apart, this campaign is a hard and trying one on men, where the axe is employed instead of the rifle, and all man's exertions continually fail in keeping himself from freezing. I have soldiered in a climate where I have seen the thermometer many times at 120°, and marched for days and weeks together across barren sunny plains almost destitute of water, but the extreme of heat never had the same enervating, prostrating influence upon me, that this fierce cold has; mind and body seem alike chilled, alike incapable of active exertion.

LIFE IN THE CAMP.

December 21.—Suppose I give you an idea of our life in camp. At early dawn, 6½ A. M., the bugles sound the reveille, and every man turns out on parade, rain or snow, calm or storm, to remember what the morning may be. Then at 7 A. M. comes breakfast-call, at 8½ A. M. fall out for morning drill, which most important ceremony takes place immediately after. At 9 A. M. the guard, which consists of the previous day, is relieved by the fatigue call, and men to work chopping and hauling wood for the officers, and performing whatever labor may be required in camp, and at the same hour, 9 A. M., "A" company falls in for drill for an hour. "A" company being dismissed at 10 A. M., "B" company takes its turn at 10 A. M., at the manual of arms, and different facings, till 12 M., when the dinner call, and recall from fatigue being sounded, the company is dismissed, and the fatigue come in and go to dinner. At 1 P. M., the fatigue party goes to work at something or other, and "D" company falls in for drill till 3 P. M., and at 3½ P. M. the fatigue party are recalled for the day. Our guard consists of one lieutenant, one sergeant, two corporals, and twenty-seven men, and as we have eight lieutenants, twelve fifty sergeants, sixteen corporals, and 270 privates in our battalion, the tour of guard does not come round distressingly often, though walking post in these awful nights is a severe trial at any time. In addition to other duties, a pretty large number of the men are employed in building bake houses and meat houses, for smoking the best parts of the cattle slaughtered, and in various ways. But to return to our day's history. "Retreat" sounds at sunset, and the rolls are called by the first sergeants, the reports are collected by the adjutant, arms are inspected by the company officers, and the companies are dismissed. Tattoo at 8 P. M., and the signal to extinguish lights and preserve quiet in tents sounds in fifteen minutes after, and the volunteer's day is over. Scarcely anything occurs to disturb the monotony of our lives in these Winter quarters.

Those off duty have enough to occupy themselves about their tents and huts in cooking, carrying wood and water, and performing all the various et cetera of a life in camp. The march too great to permit out-door exercise in hunting being pleasant; and if it was not, all game has run off, I expect, since the arrival of our command. Hard frozen snow covers all nature, and if anything stops here that can fly or run away, why it is a greater fool than I have generally been in the habit of meeting. Our rations have been cut down nearly a half, and in this tremendous climate, not having enough to eat tells upon a man's temper and capabilities considerably. The meat is the most possible kind of tough bull, consisting of those misguided oxen who crossed the plains with teams this Summer, worn to the bone almost, and who were foolish enough not to die before they got here. You are aware, of course, that the Cheyennes took all the cattle intended to feed us, near Fort Kearney, and so we are reduced to the unfortunate draught animals. Bacon, three-quarters of a pound, is issued once in ten days, and serves us to fry our meal and shorten our bread. But withal we strive to keep up a good heart and flicker round generally, reserving to ourselves the privilege of paying it all out on the Mormons if we can get at them. They do say that we will have some fine shooting in the mountains next Spring, and I only hope they may be half as good as their words.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S MESSAGE—INDICTMENT OF THE MORMON LEADERS FOR TREASON, &c.

The annual Message of Brigham Young to the Legislature of Utah was delivered on the 15th of December. It opens with a general review of the year and bestows high praise upon the persevering efforts of the "Saints," assisted by appropriations from the Territorial Legislature, to extend the area of tillable land and widen the field of industrial pursuit. A laudable emulation among the agricultural population has been fostered by the "Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society," an association which holds Annual Fairs for the distribution of prizes, establishes series of lectures on industrial pursuits, and strives in various ways to secure the full development of the resources of the Territory. In view of the assistance thus rendered, Brigham considers further special legislation for the agricultural interest unnecessary. The manufacturing industry of the Mormons is assiduously applied to the home supply; yet a serious drawback is felt in consequence of the want of raw materials, such as sugar-cane, cotton, wool and dye-stuffs. A part of this deficiency, however, appears in a fair way to be remedied. The Chinese sugar cane (Sorghum) has been cultivated in several localities with success. A small crop of cotton has recently been raised in the Southern settlements. Indigo has also been raised with fair success. Madder can be cultivated in all the settlements. The wool crop, it is thought, may be made productive by the bestowal of more care upon the stock of sheep. An iron furnace has been established, but the manufacture has not been prosecuted with the degree of success that was anticipated. The Governor, however, is hopeful, and urges the faithful to give attention to the facilities already existing for the supply of the home market. The schools are prospering. Each Ward has one or more comfortable school-houses.

Indian affairs next claim attention. Brigham distinctly denies that the Mormons are in complicity with the savages in any of their attacks on emigrants, and seizes the occasion to berate "the lying and corrupt presses throughout the Union," which have sent forth "a united and prolonged howl of base slander and false accusation" against the Mormons for having incited the Indians to bloody deeds. He recommends a continuance of humane policy towards the savages, the expense of whose quasi support has fallen almost exclusively upon the inhabitants of the Territory. The Federal Government is roundly censured for its neglect of the Indian tribes.

The stuppage of the Utah mail provokes a strong expression of opinion from the Governor. The mail contract was awarded in the Fall of 1856 to Hiram Kimball, a Mormon, at the rate of $23,000 per annum. The Governor declares that the payments were not punctual, and adds that the Post-Office Department took "an unjust and unwarrantable advantage of a clause wisely designed for the protection of public rights, tyrannically disannulled the contract, alleging, as cause for such outrageous usurpation, naught but a failure in commencing the service at the time required, when they well knew that service was put upon the route weeks before the arrival of the acceptance of the bid, unduly detained through the fault of their pet contractor, and bolstering that allegation with the false and slanderous assertion, 'the unsettled state of things at Salt Lake rendering the mails unsafe under present circumstances.'"

In connection with this subject occurs the first threat against the Government contained in the Message. Brigham says:

"It is a matter of deep regret that officers of a Government, founded at so great a sacrifice by our forefathers, upon a land chosen above all other lands, have become so sunken in degradation as to have utterly lost sight of those pure and just principles embodied in the Constitution, and prefer, in the mad pursuit of low, groveling and selfish aims, to adopt and carry out that suicidal policy, a persistence in which can but end in rending to pieces a nation that otherwise might become the happiest and most powerful on the globe. Reckless office-holders and office-seekers have their poisoned fangs so deeply buried in the vitals of the body politic, and are so thoroughly organized and drilled in the defence and attack of the spoils, while the tradesmen, the mechanics, the husbandmen and the humble laborers—the real virtue and sound intelligence of the Republic—are so busily occupied in their daily toil, and, except here and there a few, are so little aware of the dire portent of the future, and of the measures necessary for insuring public tranquility, that it is a discouraging task to attempt arresting the timid current of official corruption that would sweep every vestige of truth, virtue and human rights from our unhappy country; but the crimsoned satellites of plunder, oppression and usurpation may rest assured that every friend of liberty will resist their destructive progress, and stand fast by the Constitution and all laws conformable therewith."

And again:

"Even since the more odious features in the Ordinance of '87 have been omitted in the Organic acts more recently passed by Congress for Territories, which acts are but illegal patterns after that unconstitutional ordinance, officers are appointed to rule over American citizens in Territories, and to have a voice in the enactment, adjudication and execution of Territorial laws; and, worse still, those officers are frequently appointed from a class well known, through the rightfully-expressed wishes of large majorities, to be justly objected to by those whom they are appointed to govern. Call you that republican? It is British colonial vassalage, unconstitutionally perpetuated by tyranny and usurpation in the powers that be."

After an attack upon the character of the former Government officials in Utah, Brigham proceeds to treat of the Army. On this point he is very savage and threatening. A determination to resist to the death is expressed with emphatic clearness. We copy:

"Time glided by, and travelers and newspapers began to confirm the rumor that the present Executive and a part of his Cabinet had yielded to the rabid clamor raised against Utah by lying editors, corrupt demagogues, heartless office-hunters and the ignorant rabble, incited by numbers of the hireling clergy, and were about to send an army to Utah, with the sole and avowed purpose, as published in almost every newspaper, of compelling American citizens, peaceably, loyally and lawfully occupying American soil, to forego the dearest constitutional rights, to abandon their religion, to wallow in the mire and worship at the shrine of modern civilization and Christianity, or be expelled from the country or exterminated. Where now are constitutional rights? Who is laying the axe at the root of the tree of liberty? Who are the usurpers? Who the tyrants? Who the traitors? Most assuredly, those who are madly urging measures to subvert the genius of free institutions and those principles of liberty upon which our Government is based.

It must needs be that President Buchanan, if he has ordered an army to Utah as reported—for he has not officially notified me of such a movement by his order—has at length succumbed, either of choice or through being overcome, to the cruel and nefarious counsels of those enemies, and is endeavoring to carry out a usurpation of power which of right only belongs to the people, by appointing civil officers known to be justly objectionable to freemen, and sending a so-called army under mere color of law to force these officers upon us at the point of the bayonet, and to [illegible] for the collection [illegible] gang of plunderers, cut-throats, whoremongers, [illegible] and the rest of the [illegible] that may choose to follow in their train, [illegible] a system of oppression [illegible] the least spark of patriotism and love of constitutional liberty.

Legislative measures of resistance are recommended:

"Fully aware, as has been justly written, that 'patriotism does not consist in aiding Government in every base or stupid act it may perform, but rather in paralyzing its power when it violates vested rights, affronts insulted justice and assumes undelegated authority,' and knowing that the so-called army, reported to be on its way to Utah, was an undisguised mob if not sent by the President of the United States, and if sent by him, in the manner and for the purpose alleged in all the information permitted to reach us, was no less a mob, though in the latter event acting under color of law; we are learning its near approach I issued, as in constitutional duty bound, a proclamation expressly forbidding all bodies of armed men, under whatsoever name or by whomsoever sent, to come within the bounds of this Territory. That so-called army, or, more strictly speaking, mob, refused to obey that proclamation, copies of which were officially furnished them, and prosecuted their march to the neighborhood of Fort Bridger and Supply, (which were vacated and burnt upon their approach,) where it is said they intend to winter. Under these circumstances I respectfully suggest that you take such measures as your enlightened judgment may dictate to insure public tranquility, and protect, preserve and perpetuate inviolate those inalienable constitutional rights which have descended to us a rich legacy from our forefathers."

Resistance is declared to be a duty:

"No one has denied, or wishes to deny, the right of the Government to send its troops when, where and as it pleases, so it is but done clearly within the authorities and limitations of the Constitution, and for the safety and welfare of the people; but when it sends them clearly without the pale of those authorities and limitations, unconstitutionally to oppress the people, as is the case in the so-called army sent to Utah, it commits a treason against itself which commands the resistance of all good men, or freedom will depart our nation."

In conclusion, the Governor says:

"In compliance with a long-established custom in appointing officers not of the people's electing, which the Supreme Court of the United States would at once, in justice, decide to be unconstitutional, we have petitioned and petitioned that good men be appointed, until that hope is exhausted; and we have long enough borne the insults and outrages of lawless officials, until we are compelled, in self-defence, to assert and maintain that great Constitutional right of the governed to officers of their own election, and local laws of their own enactment. That the President and counsellors, aiders and abettors of the present treasonable crusade against the peace and rights of a Territory of the United States, may reconsider their course and retrace their steps is earnestly to be desired; but in either event, our trust and confidence are in that Being who, at His pleasure, rules among the armies of Heaven and controls the wrath of the children of men, and most cheerfully should we be able to abide the issue.

"Permit me to tender you my entire confidence that your deliberations will be distinguished by that wisdom, unanimity and love of justice that has ever marked the councils of our Legislative Assemblies, and the assurance of my hearty cooperation in every measure you adopt for promoting the true interests of a Territory beloved by us for its very isolation and forbidding aspect; for here, if anywhere upon this footstool of our God, have we the privilege and prospect of being able to secure and enjoy those inestimable rights of civil and religious liberty, which the beneficent Creator of all mankind has, in His mercy, made indefeasible, and perpetuate them upon a broader and firmer basis for the benefit of ourselves, of our children, and our children's children, until peace shall be restored to our distracted country.

BRIGHAM YOUNG."

On the 21st December, the Territorial Legislature adopted a series of resolutions indorsing Brigham's views, and declaring:

"That we hold ourselves, our means and influence in readiness to sustain his Excellency Governor Young in every act he may perform or dictate, in accordance with the Constitution and constitutional laws of the United States, and the laws of Utah, for the protection of the lives, peace and prosperity of the people of this Territory.

That, while we deprecate the bitter hostility manifested toward a most loyal and innocent people by the present Administration of the General Government, we will continue to resist any attempt on the part of the Administration to bring us into a state of vassalage by appointing, contrary to the Constitution, officers whom the people have neither vote nor voice in electing; nor shall any persons appointed to office for Utah by the present Administration, either qualify for or assume and discharge, within the limits of this Territory, the functions of the offices to which they have been appointed, so long as our Territory is menaced by an invading army, (for such an army cannot have been sent to protect either the citizens or the passing emigration, but is manifestly sent to aid in trampling upon American liberty,) nor so long as such appointees are so pusillanimous as to require a numerous armed force to attend their beck to enable them to carry out their traitorous designs, concocted for the sake of depriving American citizens of their indefeasible and vested rights.

On the 30th December, at Camp Scott, the Grand Jury of the United States District Court returned an indictment for treason against the Mormon leaders, based upon the issue of Brigham's declaration of war and Daniel H. Wells' orders to the Mormons to burn the grass, to surprise the troops, to blockade the roads, &c. The parties named in the indictment, are as follows: Brigham Young, Heber C. Kimball, Daniel H. Wells, John Taylor, George D. Grant, Lot Smith, Porter Rockwell, William A. Hickman, Albert Carrington, Joseph Taylor, William Stowell, Lewis Robinson, Joshua Terrey, John Harvey, Daniel Jones, Phineas Young, William Young, Robert Burton, James Ferguson, Ephraim Hanks, late of the county aforesaid, yeomen, with a great multitude of persons (whose names to the Grand Jurors aforesaid are at present unknown,) to the number of one thousand persons or more, being inhabitants of the said Territory and residents therein.

The specific charges against these parties cover the whole ground of Mormon outrage,—the proclamation of war, the orders of Wells, conspiracies and combinations,—the indicted parties being described as persons "owing allegiance and fidelity to the United States, not weighing the duty of their said allegiance, but wickedly devising and intending the peace and tranquillity of the said United States to disturb, and to prevent the execution of the laws thereof within the said Territory."

The Mormon Legislature met at Salt Lake City on Dec. 14. The Council organized by the choice of Heber C. Kimball as President, and the House of Representatives elected Jesse Taylor, (formerly editor of the New-York Mormon,) as Speaker. On the 23d an act was passed attaching Green River County, in which the United States troops are encamped, to Great Salt Lake City.

The Law's Delays.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I do not regret your criticism of my former communication, notwithstanding your difference with me in opinion, for I think the subject requires careful investigation, and I am satisfied that its discussion in the columns of your paper will be more likely to lead to a good result than any other means that can be resorted to.

I stated as a fact "that no one of our Judges is ever idle a day for want of work given them by lawyers." You say "this is an error, into which our correspondent must have fallen inadvertently." Far from it. I still say that the statement is correct. I do not say that every Judge spends a certain number of hours of the day on the Bench the year round. The labors of a Judge are not confined to the Bench, but a very large part of them he performs in the retirement of his library at home. The duties of the Judges are so apportioned that each shall, during a portion of the time, be released from constant presence in Court, that he may labor in his library. A mere nisi prius Judge needs very little time for this purpose, but a Judge sitting at Special Term to hear equity cases, or at General Term to hear appeals, needs a great deal of time for retired study. He really needs much more time for study than he does for listening to arguments of counsel. Therefore the fact that the General and Special Terms often adjourn before 3 o'clock in the afternoon does not argue that the Judges holding them have not their hands full of business. It might do so in the country, where the Judges sit for two or three weeks, and then go home for a vacation.

But I insist that no one has any cause for complaint on the score of delay at the General or Special Terms, at least no cause of complaint against the law or the organization of our Courts. Those Terms in all our Courts almost always go through the whole calendar. It rarely happens that a case cannot be tried and disposed of at the very first Term it gets on either the General or Special Term calendar. If this be so, the law provides, thus far, all that the people can require of it. If any particular case is not disposed of when it might have been, the litigant has no fault to find with the law or with the Courts. If he is dissatisfied, he can and should hold his lawyer responsible. He is his servant, and if he does not perform his duty, it is easy to discharge him, and get another more faithful in his place. The law cannot and ought not to do anything for him, unless it can and ought to fix the hour that your cook shall have your breakfast ready, or punish the publishers of the Times for occasionally omitting to have my paper at the door when I arise in the morning.

But when we come to the Terms for Jury trials there is a very different state of things. Here your cause has to be on the calendar for from four to twelve months before it can be reached, the time depending on various contingencies, and this is the delay which ought to be remedied. In many letters of communication I cited an instance in my own case of exactly the cause of this evil. There are many other instances, but these are few and far between. I now cut the day calendar of the Superior Court as published in your issue of this morning; compare it with last Monday's day calendar, and you will find it substantially the same. There are 28 cases on it that have been waiting to be called for four days. I have not a copy of the Times of an earlier date, but, if my memory serves me right, nearly every one of these 28 cases has been on the day calendar for at least two weeks. In the mean time the Judges have not been idle, but on the contrary, they have been diligently engaged in trying the causes which have been called. There is no procrastination of lawyers to charge the evil to in this case. Here, clearly, is where the hands of the Legislature should be put forth for our relief. Let them give us the Special, sine prius Justices as I have proposed, and we lawyers who have our cases on the, as these 28 cases are, will be very glad to step with our clients and witnesses before one of those Justices, dispose of our cases and go about some business more profitable than "watching" causes. Then other cases will take our places on the day calendar, and some more rapid progress towards the end will be made.

The great mass of cases before a Jury do not occupy over two hours each. But some cases occupy weeks each. When one of that class of cases gets on for trial, the day calendar gets "blocked up" by it. That is the sole cause of the delay in reaching cases, and that accounts for our sometimes having to wait for months before we can get a trial. The plan I proposed in your paper of Tuesday is certainly calculated to meet and remove the evil, and I have heard of no other that will have any tendency to do so. I beg the Committee for a trial of it for a year. It will not cost much, and I verily believe that, after six months' trial, it will be found that a cause may be more speedily forced on to trial in this District than in any other part of the State.

I have no desire to trespass on your columns at such client length to reply to all the remarks in your editorial of Wednesday.

I am not on a Quixotic expedition for righting the wrongs done my profession, and I therefore have confined myself entirely to so much of subject as bears upon my proposition for the appointment of special nisi prius judges, to sit daily for the trial of causes when both parties come voluntarily before them for that purpose, without regard to the place of such causes on the general calendar, and without regard to the Courts in which they have been instituted, and, if unemployed in such business, to try any case that may be sent to them from the day calendar of any Court in the District; such judges to have no further or other jurisdiction or power.

If I am right as to the cause of the evil, and I have no doubt any Judge or practising lawyer will say that I am, this plan will certainly "strike at the root of the evil."

Commodore Paulding and the Wabash.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your Havana correspondent speaks of a difference having occurred between Commodore Paulding and the Consul-General at Havana.

I can assure you that the Consul was saluted by the Wabash upon a former visit to Havana, and that it is not customary to salute those officers more than once from the same ship. Had it been officially known on board that he had lately received an accession of rank he would have been saluted again.

Your correspondent further says that "as far as he has heard, the Consul has the advantage over Paulding and his officers in point of courtesy and politeness, and he thinks the officers of the Wabash have been guilty of a gross neglect." He has unfortunately been misinformed, as we do not go too far in saying that no one ever obtained the advantage over Commodore Paulding in point of gentlemanly bearing and courtesy, and his officers have always endeavored to imitate him in this particular.

The usual attentions were paid to the Consul, and if he did not see proper to accept of them, it was his we fault. It was, in fact, a subject of some remark among the officers of the ship that he did not show them that courtesy which is due from one gentleman to another, counting official rights out of the question, and in consequence of his uncompromising manner, his society was not sought by them. The assertion that the Wabash dipped her colors to the Spanish Admiral conveys what is not true, and the writer must have willfully misstated it. It is customary to return the salute when another vessel dips her colors to you, and it is only in this way that the flag of the Wabash has ever been lowered.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—March Term.

Before Hon. Judge Russell.

The March Term of the Court of General Sessions commenced yesterday, with very little excitement. Judge Russell, fresh from an interview with the President, ascended the Bench a little behind time. Mr. John Sedgwick, the As-

[illegible] Bank Clerk, Jr., was indicted for his recent trip to Canada, though a little deeper in [illegible] than the Bank Clerk, he was back in a few minutes later. The Court [illegible] and only [illegible] names. Of these two made [illegible] and there was no response. The [illegible] did not answer to their names were fined [illegible]

The Petit Jury were called as usual. The [illegible] excuses were made. A few were successful, but nine out of ten were ordered to serve.

Recorder Barnard took his seat on the Bench, and sentenced George Brown, convicted last term of grand larceny, to two years and three months in the State Prison.

Francis Bachelot, a German, was then tried for an assault on William Cutman, French guilty. Sentence deferred. Court adjourned.

The Calendar for this term numbers 17 cases, Grand larceny 21, burglary 12, abandonment of infant 4, forgery 3, assault and battery 2, murder 1, bigamy 1, robbery 3, false pretences 1, abandonment of an infant 1, kidnapping 1. Of these, the murder cases have been transferred to the Over and Terminer, which will commence on the first Monday in April. Trial of Maroney for the murder of Hamilton is among them. There are seven cases awaiting trial this term in the Court of General Sessions, owing to the Recorder's activity in the February term, than there have been for over a year past. The Grand Jury to be impanneled to-day, have, however, hard

WOOL.—The unusual dullness in the Woolen Goods market continues to influence the production, which is very much restricted, and, in consequence, there is very little demand for Wool from manufacturers. The dealers are buying reservedly, and there is not much disposition to speculate. The tendency of prices is in favor of purchasers, but this circumstance appears to have no stimulating effect on the demand. The stock is generally considered light, and holders are anxious to realize. The sales, since our last, have been confined to small lots of Fleece, for which, however, the quantities at first offered were not inconsiderable. Sales of 50 bales of Saxony Fleece, at 45c., and a lot of 50 bales Mediterranean, at 30c., are the only transactions in Philadelphia, during the week. About 60,000 lbs. Domestic changed hands at the Eastern for Fleece, 24@25c. for Pulled, No. 1, and 20@22c. for Mixed. In Baltimore, the business is quite light for the week, was light, and prices were nominally lower. In Boston, last week, the demand for Fleece was quiet and pulled Wool was good, and the market was steady, with sales of 175,000 lbs. In Boston the sales ever been 100 Bales Mediterranean, Clothing and other kinds, within the previous range of quotations.

L'ITALIANA IN ALGERI.

Lease and Sole Director ..... E. Ullman.

TO-NIGHT, (Tuesday,) CHEAP OPERA NIGHT. Admission, 50 cents; reserved seats 25 cents extra; amphitheatre, 25 cents.

Rossini's celebrated Opera, in 2 acts, of L'Italiana in Algeri and Balfe's opera of "Robert le Diable," commenced this morning at 8, at the stores ticket offices.

TO-NIGHT, (Tuesday,) March 2, at 8, doors open at 7, by general request, and for the last time, L'ITALIANA IN ALGERI.

Mme. D'ANGRI, SIEDENBURG, LABOCETTA, GARDNER and ROCCO.

WEDNESDAY, March 3—Regular Opera Night. ROBERT LE DIABLE.

The sale of tickets commences this morning.

THE HUGUENOTS.

To be produced in the month of March.

The "Huguenots" have been in preparation for upwards of three months. Over two hundred persons are employed in getting this Opera up. The Director believes that, through unremitting labor on his part, and on that of the artists and the employees, he will be able strictly to fulfill the tempting promises held out in this announcement.

SYNOPSIS OF THE RISE EN SCENE.

1. Five new scenes, painted by Allegri, Calvo and Heister, being principally copies of those used in Paris at the Imperial Opera House.

2. About three hundred dresses, part of which have been made in Paris, by the costumer of the Grand Opera, and the rest have been manufactured here from original drawings, which will exactly correspond to the epoch in which the action takes place (1572.)

3. A regular chorus of seventy, instead of the usual number of thirty-five.

4. In the coronation scene (in which the destruction of the Protestants is plotted by the Catholics) an extra chorus of one hundred and thirty will be added; thus making the united choral force two hundred strong, being the largest number ever employed in any Opera House of Europe or America.

5. A regular Orchestra of sixty, instead of the usual number of forty, to which will be added in the third act, when the Queen and her ladies of honor arrive on horseback, an extra band of twenty.

6. A cast complete in every particular, comprising the talents of La Grange, D'Angri, Siedenburg, Tiberini, Gassier, Tagliaffi, Rocco, Pikaneser, Dubreuil, Beutler, Oehrlein, Bastelini and Carl Formes, who will sing the most important part of Marcel, the Huguenot, which, jointly with that of Bertram, in "Robert le Diable," is considered his greatest part.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—THE HUGUENOTS—A FEW WORDS TO THE PUBLIC.

I have given you the longest and most brilliant season of grand Opera that has ever taken place in America. I have had to struggle against greater obstacles than any other manager. I allude to the late financial revulsion. The direction of the opera has always involved great risks under the most prosperous circumstances; you can, therefore, easily imagine how much I had to work to achieve the satisfying results I have obtained, in spite of a month's outlay of over $20,000, occasioned through the production of so many grand and comparatively new operas by a company so numerous and costly.

In bringing out the "Huguenots" in the style which will distinguish the work, I have taxed my resources to the utmost. The new scenery and dresses alone cost over $4,000, and the general expense of extra chorus, extra orchestra, and extra rehearsals will swell this sum to the fully $6,000. This exceeds, by many thousands of dollars, the largest sum ever expended on any opera given in this country.

From present appearances, and the actual inquiries for seats and boxes, even before the day of the first performance is definitely fixed, there is no doubt that this opera will attract immense audiences, for many nights to come, however full the house may be, I cannot make my expenses at present prices, and I cannot but lose by my attempt to bring out a celebrated opera in a style fully equaling that of the first opera-house in Europe.

Will you permit this? Assuredly not, or I am greatly mistaken in the proverbial liberality of the New-Yorkers.

Every manager has been in the habit of taking one or more benefits during the season. For reasons, which it would be too long to detail, I consider this custom more honored in the breach than in the observance. I intend appealing to the public in another, and what I believe to be a more rational shape.

I request the public to pay, on such nights when the "Huguenots" is given, $1 50 for the admission ticket, instead of $1, as on other nights. This is a mere trifle to every individual person, but it will be a substantial assistance to me, which must bring me, in the aggregate, a clear gain of $5,000.

Do you think I have some claim upon you? Will you pay the price, and will you do so cheerfully? You have done so for COSTAS, ALBONI, MARIO and GRISI, and the old and worn-out operas they have appeared in.

The price for a decent place to see the "Huguenots" in Paris is $3 in London $4. Those who will go to see the "Huguenots" at the Academy, will perhaps find a superior performance.

Those who know me I need not assure that every cent thus obtained will be faithfully employed by me towards making next Winter's season still more brilliant than that which will expire in a few weeks. I have been honored by a unanimous vote of the Directors and Stockholders of this Academy of Music with an extension of my present lease of one year to one of four years, and, thus encouraged, I can safely promise you for next Winter a succession of brilliant operas, got up in a style fully equaling that which can only be found in a European opera-house, aided by a large subvention by Government.

The General Markets yesterday opened briskly for Cotton, which slightly improved. Breadstuffs [illegible], without any very remarkable change in prices. Provisions were lightly dealt in. Pork declined a shade. Other articles were steady. Sugars and Rice were in fair demand, at full rates. Hides were in good request, and quite stiffly held. Other branches of trade exhibited no remarkable alteration.

The Prophet Unveiled.

The Mahomet of the Great Salt Lake has at last thrown off all disguise, and has boldly taken his stand upon a tenable ground of resistance to the Executive of the Union. He has published a long and elaborate message to the Legislature of Utah, in which he maintains the doctrine of Popular Sovereignty in its broadest acceptation, and hurls most logical defiance at the President who refuses to acknowledge his own principles of Government when transferred from Nebraska to Deseret, and expanded into a beauty more full-blown and absolute. The argumentation of BRIGHAM YOUNG, High Priest and Governor, is certainly not less accurate and precise than the argumentation of Mr. BUCHANAN, candidate and President, and it leads the Mormon ruler on by sequences of unimpeachable facility from the Articles of Confederation of the United American Colonies to the assertion that neither the President nor Congress can appoint officers to govern the inhabitants of an American Territory without the free consent and election of those inhabitants. Here then the Mormon makes his stand. He declares that he himself and only he is the lawfully preferred and chosen ruler of Utah; that all other persons whatsoever who shall pretend to exercise authority in Utah by virtue of a Presidential commission are interlopers and usurpers; and he summons the people of his faith to support him against the invaders of their inherent and inalienable rights. The people, speaking by their Legislature, accept the position made for them by their prophets, and Utah offers to the Union the alternative of peace or war, according as the forces of Colonel JOHNSTON shall or shall not attempt to introduce themselves and to bring the officials of Mr. BUCHANAN'S nomination with them into the Territory from which they have been formally excluded by the supreme command of Governor BRIGHAM YOUNG. With characteristic astuteness, the Prophet reverts to the apparent acceptance by his people and himself, of the Presidential authority from the hands of Mr. FILLMORE, and he explains away this seeming precedent by averring that when he consented to act as Governor under Mr. FILLMORE'S commission, he did so only because Mr. FILLMORE "was a wise and good man," who proved his wisdom and goodness by confirming the nominee of Heaven in the person of BRIGHAM YOUNG, and because the people of Utah were willing to "waive their rights" awhile, for the sake of peace.

Logically, Mr. BUCHANAN and all the friends of the Nebraska-Kansas bill are bound to admit the conclusions of the Mormon Governor, but practically, they will hardly fail to receive his argument as a proclamation of treason, and to indorse in full the indictment already found at Camp Scott by the Grand Jury of Green River County, in the Territory of Utah, against the Prophet himself, the Twelve Apostles, and a number more of the Mormon leaders, as conspirators against the United States. And with the opening of the Spring we shall unquestionably see the beginning of a serious Mormon war; for there is no reason to believe that in the most inflammatory accounts which we have received of the condition of Utah, the influence and authority of YOUNG over his people have ever been exaggerated, and YOUNG has now staked his every pretension to teach and rule his people upon the maintenance of the claims which he has advanced in the face of an American army, and under cover of an appeal to the principles of American liberty. Whatever distinclination the President and his friends may feel towards attacking the pretensions of a man who is simply carrying out their own doctrines to their legitimate consequences, the country at large, we think, will hardly acquiesce in the flagrant overthrow of all constitutional precedents, by a theocratical despot, pretending to speak in the name of an ignorant and fanatical multitude, bound by all the bonds of spiritual slavery about the footstool of his power; and, without wasting thought or speech upon that vacillating policy of the past by which the intrinsic difficulties of the Mormon question have been aggravated a hundred fold, it has become the duty of the people to see that the proper steps are taken at once for supporting the National authority in Utah, with as little of the painful parade and as much of the merciful decision of power as possible. And to that end it is primarily essential that the disgraceful occupation by Federal troops of the Territory of Kansas should immediately cease—and that the army which is to move into the mountains in the Spring should not leave behind it the smouldering embers of civil dissensions, which no army that can be sustained by this nation will be adequate to suppress.

Two Lecompton Meetings.

The harmonious Democracy of the City are obliged to hold two separate meetings to indorse the Lecompton movement. One is to be held to-night at Mozart Hall, in Broadway, and the other at Tammany on Thursday next. Which is regular it is difficult to say:—but the fact that General DIX, JOHN VAN BUREN and other Free-Soilers of 1848, lend the light of their countenance to the Thursday night movement, goes far to stamp that as the genuine, Simon-Pure, unadulterated Lecompton demonstration.

Another fact which casts a shadow of doubt over the Mozart Hall meeting is, that General CALHOUN'S name does not appear on the list of invited orators. This looks like a cowardly truckling to the prejudices of certain Democrats, which is unworthy of the out-and-out, through-thick-and-thin supporters of the Administration policy. It is to be hoped the other meeting will be less squeamish and more honest. There is not a man in the United States who has so thoroughly earned the gratitude of the Lecompton Democracy as General CALHOUN,—not one who was more prominent in forcing that opinion upon the people of Kansas, or who is now more active in forcing it upon the people of the Territory. On the score of merit, not one of the invited orators has deserved half as much of the hands of the Administration.

General CALHOUN is said to be a capital speaker, and being thoroughly familiar with the whole history of what is popularly known as the Lecompton swindle, the Democracy of New-York could not fail to be highly edified by a discourse from him upon that subject.

We call upon General DIX and JOHN VAN BUREN, who have signed the call for the second meeting, to see that no such injustice is done to this distinguished Lecompton Democrat on that occasion as has been practiced by the timid and spurious Committee who have control of the meeting to-night. Let General CALHOUN be heard!

The Committees of Claims in Congress, and the Chances of Claimants.

In commenting, the other day, on the attack of Mr. STUART, in the Senate, upon the Court of Claims, we did not overlook the fact that his remarks were no less insulting to his colleagues of the Senate Committee of Claims than they were to the Court. When Mr. STUART said that the Senate ought to reject the claim before them as "unanimously as the Court had reported it," it was assuming that the Committee had stultified themselves, in unanimously adopting the judgment of the Court. But the Committee were able to take care of themselves. When Mr. Mallory, Mr. Iverson, Mr. Clark, Mr. Polk, and Mr. Simmons consent to be bullied and ridden roughshod by the Senator from Michigan, then we shall expect to see them turn in and help make the Senate unanimous in the rejection of their own unanimous reports. We think we see the process of caving-in. We can fancy Mr. SIMMONS apologizing to Mr. STUART for having come to a deliberate conclusion in favor of the unanimous judgment of a Court, without ascertaining Mr. STUART'S intuitive or inspired opinion of it beforehand. Mr. IVERSON, of Georgia, is a very courteous gentleman, and will, no doubt, back down with the most consummate grace on Mr. STUART'S position. Mr. CLARK and Mr. POLK, we hope, will make satisfactory explanations to Mr. STUART, and receive his bland forgiveness. Mr. MALLORY may be a little more intractable, and, if so, Mr. STUART will be compelled to give him another crack of the whip, and then it will be all right.

It is derogatory to these gentlemen even to suggest such a result—but they are on the floor of the Senate to speak for themselves, and require no outside auxiliaries. The Court of Claims, however, is not there to defend itself. The Court of Claims has a host of enemies. Every jobbing and peddling member of Congress, who has heard of the rich pickings that were to be had of private claimants in better days, and who laments, Othello-like, over the loss of his "occupation"—is a bitter foe to the Court. Every sneaking officer and ex-officer of either House, who finds that his knowledge of the "ropes" is a commodity not worth greasing his palms for—and who no longer exacts fees of petitioners for watching their bills and helping them through, is a bitter foe to the Court. Every huckstering claim-agent, skilled in the underhand management of hard cases, that will not bear the light—and who fears to submit them to the probe of the solicitors of the United States—is a bitter foe to the Court. Every venal newspaper correspondent, who has been levying black-mail on unfortunates, as the only condition of his not "killing their bills," is a bitter foe to the Court. All the great men's little men, who keep their masters' consciences, and pretend to control their votes, and who sell them out a dozen times a day because they prepare their letters and get up their reports, and have access to them when they are at their shaving-cup or their wine-cups—all these men are bitter foes to the Court. Every clerk of a committee who misses his old retainer for not opposing and delaying an honest claim, or for covering up and glossing over a dishonest one, is a bitter foe to the Court. Here, indeed, is an array militant, battering away at all times at the Court of Claims, and therefore it is, if the Court is worth defending, that it is entitled to the active and vigorous support of the Press.

We have often expressed the opinion that the Court is an important institution, and that the judges who compose it are of a character and weight to command the public confidence. It is a most efficient breakwater to the tides of legislative corruption that have threatened of late to sweep away the honor and good name of Congress. The United States are represented in the Court by three solicitors of experience and ability, who manage the business in such a way that every case is thoroughly investigated, and ably argued for the Government. A dishonest claim must be very cunningly and very skillfully presented, if it is not broken down on a question of fact or of law by the united intelligence and research of these Government lawyers. They spare no pains. Some of them abuse every claimant who exhibits himself as roundly as if they were members of Congress talking for bunkum. If a claimant runs this gauntlet with any skin left on him, he is fortunate—but then he has to submit to a still more trying process, the private consultation of the Court. Here he encounters the subtlety of SCARBURG, the distrust of BLACKFORD, and the judicial insight of GILCHRIST. Now who will say that the United States have not been fairly represented here—before a tribunal of their own creation, and judges appointed and paid by themselves? Who would complain if judgments both for and against the United States were uniformly adopted by Congress? Admit that they are sometimes wrong. All human tribunals may err. Are they not more likely to be right than any Committee of Congress can be, with its ex parte examinations of private rights, and its ex parte decisions upon them?

But practically, what has been the operation of this process of adjudicating contested rights? There have been three classes of cases. In one class—a very large and very important one—by far the largest and by far the most important—the court decides against the claimant. Cases involving millions of dollars have been disposed of upon questions of legal right, depending on constructions of statutes—in which the Court have said that the law was against the claimants. In many other cases the Court have decided against the claimants upon the facts. Congress finds a [illegible] in adopting all these decisions. Forty-seven of these cases were reported back to the impartial, justice-loving House of Representatives only a week ago last Friday. Mr. PALMER, we observed, made a struggle to save a few bills from the general doom, and he was successful. A debate occurred, too, on a motion to refer one of the cases (which the Court had decided against on the ground that it was barred by a statute) to a committee—but no one intimated in the course of the debate that the Court had made a wrong decision. The Court had decided, no doubt, according to the law—and the House were right accordingly in affirming forty-seven of their judgments without debate.

This is one class of cases, and it is seen how respectfully they are treated by Congress. There is another class of cases, in which the judgments of the Court are in favor of the claimants, but there is a dissenting opinion of one of the Judges. These are referred to the Committees of Claims, and the Committees pretty uniformly adopt the dissenting opinion and report accordingly. This disposes of a second class of claims most effectually. It would be in vain to attempt to inspire a member with the courage to undertake such an uphill enterprise as to carry a claim against the report of a committee.

There is still a third class of cases, limited in number, in which the Court is unanimous in favor of the claimant. These are permitted to slumber in the Committee rooms, or if reported to Congress the very unanimity of the Court invites the suggestion that their judgment ought to be unanimously rejected! These three classes of cases embrace all that can come before the Court. What chance there may be for a claimant to recover against the Government may be inferred from this statement, which is not over-colored. Indeed it must be under-colored if we can trust the judgment of Mr. DAVIDSON, of Louisiana, a member of the Committee of Claims of the House of Representatives. In the debate of the 19th ult. Mr. DAVIDSON remonstrated with a brother member on his proposition to send a case to the Committee. He said:

"I have a suggestion to make to my friend from Pennsylvania. If he desires to have anything done with that claim, he had better not send it to the Committee of Claims, because he would want to have the evidence, the law, the equity, and the inspiration of Almighty God if he gets anything from the Committee."

If such is the Constitution of the Committee, Heaven help the poor claimant!

Gov. Walker's Position.

We commend those presses which have been so much concerned about Governor WALKER'S position on the Kansas question to his Indiana letter, which will be found in another column. If his most virulent enemies can find in that document anything to countenance the report that he had been bought over by the President to the support of the Lecompton fraud, they would do well to bring it to the notice of the public.

This letter is one of the strongest protests ever made against Executive tyranny. It sets forth in the most emphatic language, and in the most impressive style, the abjectness and disgrace of the position which a great party assumes in surrendering its principles and its convictions of right at the dictation of the President whom they have elevated to office. "Are we upon the banks of the Bosphorus or the Danube?" asks Gov. WALKER, "or upon soil consecrated to popular sovereignty by the blood of the Revolution? Is it Executive edicts or sovereign rights that constitute the liberties of our country?" These are pertinent and weighty questions,—and point to the real character of the policy which the President is endeavoring to force upon the Democratic Party.

We commend this letter of Governor WALKER to the special attention of the orators who may address the Lecompton meeting this evening. They may find in it sundry suggestions worthy of their consideration in framing their speeches for this occasion.

One point is becoming every day clearer and clearer:—the masses of the Democratic Party are against the policy of the Administration upon this subject, and even those who favor it do so,—not because they approve the principle which it involves, but because they believe it to be the shortest method of ridding themselves of an unpleasant and troublesome question. We are satisfied that of the respectable gentlemen who have signed the call for the Lecompton meeting at Tammany Hall, nine out of ten are actuated solely and exclusively by this motive. They will find their mistake when it is too late to remedy it.

WHAT SHALL VIRGINIA DO FOR LABORERS?—The Richmond Whig commences an elaborate leader by saying that it hears "great complaints from various parts of the State of the scarcity of labor." Now this would constitute a serious appeal to our benevolent sympathies, if the Whig meant what it said. But it did not. It meant, in fact, the contrary. "Labor" is abundant in the Old Dominion; what is lacking is the disposition to perform it, as the Whig goes on to explain:

"At the beginning of the year, when people are preparing for another year's operations, they begin for the first time to feel sensibly the effect of the immense draft made upon the labor of the State, during the last twelve months, by the Southern demand. We are not in possession of statistics which enable us to say how many slaves have been carried from the State during that time. They probably equal the natural increase; certainly they exceed the number carried off during any former year. And this result was effected in the face of an immense domestic competition, which was enabled to sustain itself by the high price of tobacco and wheat. What will be the case at the end of another year, if wheat and tobacco should be depressed, and cotton high, requires no great genius for calculation to divine. The continuance of that state of things for a few years, i. e., low-priced tobacco and high-priced cotton, will strip the State of half its adult slave population. From what we hear, there is not at present enough there labor here, to make, even with favorable seasons, an average crop of tobacco."

We are to understand from this that nobody in Virginia works except slaves; and the "Southern demand" has drained the State of its black laborers to such an extent as seriously to threaten the production of wheat and tobacco.

The Whig is forced, by this state of things, to take a gloomy view of the future. We quote:

"The consequences, social and political, of this process, continued without interruption for a few decades, are palpable and inevitable. The character of the population will undergo an entire change. The few LEGREES remaining will be found in the hands of a few rich men; and some hungry demagogue, like Wise, will not be wanting to raise the cry of aristocracy, and the whole institution will be swept from the statute [illegible] [illegible] Forty-seven of these cases were reported back to the impartial, justice-loving House of Representatives only a week ago last Friday. Mr. PALMER, we observe he had no disposition to interfere with the progress of the work the Committee had in hand. The resolution was withdrawn.

SALARIES PER ANNUM.

The Mayor's Message, vetoing the proposal to supply for each an attendant of the Charter as would authorize the payment of $1,000 a year to each member of the Common Council, was referred to by Alderman Brady, who moved that the resolution be passed notwithstanding the objection of the Mayor.

Alderman Turner hoped the resolution would not be passed, for he did not believe that attaching a salary to the office would cause the selection of better men.

Aldermen Owens and Davies expressed similar opinions.

Alderman Bradley hoped there would be a constitutional majority in favor of the resolution. The increase in the expenses of the City, referred to by the Mayor, was in a very material degree in consequence of an increase in the demands of the Board of Governors, of which the Mayor was a member. He referred to the various other sources from which the Mayor had patronage at his control, and over which the Common Council had no control. In conclusion, he declared his unknown opposition to a representation based on pecuniary influence—it had always resulted in evil to the citizens. Therefore he hoped the resolution would be adopted.

Alderman Adams thought that if the fact that great responsibility had not induced the selection of better members of the Common Council, and that therefore members should be allowed, it would be well to extend that rule in other departments. He did not think the office of Mayor had been better filled since the salary had been paid, and if they were to go back to first principles, he thought they had better go back to the time of Wynkoop, Van Schouwenhoven, who received $17 for acting as Mayor, under the Dongan and Montgomerie charter.

After some further remarks the resolution was lost.

DEBT PRAYED IN THE STREET DEPARTMENT.

The following communication was then received from D. D. Conover, Esq., being a continuation of his report of discoveries of frauds in the Street Department.

STREET DEPARTMENT, STREET COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, March, 1858.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of New-York:

Each of the assessment lists as were made up by the Assessors and confirmed by the Common Council and Mayor in the year 1856, and now on file in the Street Department, have been examined and compared in detail with the contracts of record, by order of the undersigned, and the following cases of over-payment to contractors, and consequent over-assessments of property owners, (where the amount exceeds $100,) are severally entitled, with such explanations of the cause of the excess as the undersigned is enabled to give, for the information of your Honorable body:

CASE FIRST.

Setting curb and gutter, and flagging Forty-ninth-street, from Third to Fifth avenues. John M'Cullagher was Contractor, and Ebenezer J. Doxon Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed August, 1856.

The amount due to the contractor, as per said list	$3,009 88
But the amount rightly and legally due him, as per contract, was	2,776 32
A difference against property owners of..	$233 56

Which is made up from extra allowances by the Street Commissioner for rock excavated, earth filling and bridge stone relaid, which he wrongfully certified were included in the contract at prices of $1 50 per cubic yard, 12 cents and 25 cents per square foot; when, on the contrary, these items of work were covered by the prices paid for paving, flagging, &c., as appertaining thereto. In this case, also, notwithstanding the appointment of an Inspector was not allowed by the ordinance, one was appointed, and his fees, amounting to $76 50, were assessed against the property owners.

CASE SECOND.

Regulating Forty-third-street from Third to Fifth avenues. Timothy Casey was Contractor, and Isaac T. Ludlum Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the contractor, as per said list | $3,036 66
But the amount rightly and legally due him, as per contract, was | 2,896 76
A difference against property owners of | $139 90

Which excess has no foundation upon the returns made to the Assessors, and appears to be a gratuity to the contractor. The sum of $351, inspection fees, is also allowed and assessed upon the property in interest, notwithstanding the appointment of an inspector was not allowed by the ordinance.

CASE THIRD.

Paving Thirty-eighth-street, from Ninth to Tenth avenues. John McGrain was Contractor, and Edward Boyle Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor as per said list | $1,212 15
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract, was | 942 21
A difference against the property owners of. | $269 94

Which excess has no foundation upon the returns made to the Assessors, and, therefore, appears to have been gratuitously allowed by them to the Contractor, and necessarily became an over-assessment on the property in interest. Inspection fees of $36 were also allowed and included in assessment, although an inspector was not allowed by the ordinance.

CASE ELEVENTH.

Setting curb and gutter, and flagging Forty-ninth-street from Ninth to Eleventh avenues—C. C. Ellis was Contractor and Robert J. Dodge, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856, and the Assessors made the amount due to Contractor as per said list | $2,476 08
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract, was | 2,126 90
A difference against property owners of.. | $350 00

Which excess, like the preceding case, is founded upon no data discoverable in the returns furnished to the Assessors, and has the like appearance of a gratuity to the Contractor.

CASE TWELFTH.

Paving Sixth-avenue from Forty-second to Forty-eighth streets—William Humes, Contractor, and John T. Dodge, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor, as per said list. $8,102 94
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract, was | 6,661 54
A difference against property owners of.. | $1,441 30

Which excess is founded upon no data on the face of the returns furnished to the Assessors, and how they figured it up is entirely inexplicable to the undersigned. The Contractor, however, received the benefit of it, and the assessment was made upon the property owners for it, and also for the additional sum of $192, inspection fees, notwithstanding the ordinance did not allow the appointment of an inspector.

CASE THIRTEENTH.

Paving and flagging Eighth-avenue, from Fifty-first to Fifty-third streets, J. Cunningham was Contractor, and John T. Dodge, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor, as per said list | $1,541 54
But the amount rightly and legally due him, as per contract, was | 1,190 94
A difference against property owners, of | $350 60

Which, to the extent of $91 50, is made up from extra allowances by Street Commissioner, for rock excavation, earth filling, gutter laid, and curb and gutter reset, which he wrongfully certified were included in the contract at prices respectively of $2 50, and 50 cents per cubic yard, and 55 cents and 40 cents per lineal foot; but all of which items of work were intended to be and were included in the prices paid for paving and flagging as appertaining thereto. The balance of the amount over-assessed ($250) is not accounted for by any data on the face of the returns, but seems to have been gratuitously allowed to the Contractor.

CASE FOURTEENTH.

Flagging Tenth-avenue from Forty-sixth to Fifty-fourth streets. J. Cunningham was contractor; R. Graves, surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor as per said list | $1,432 68
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract was | 1,094 28
A difference against property of.. | $338 50

Which excess is made up from extra allowances by Street Commissioner for rock excavated, paving, curb and gutter reset, and bridge stones reland, which he wrongfully certified were embraced in the contract, at prices respectively of $2 50, 35 cents per square yard, 10 cents per lineal foot, and 10 cents per square foot; but all of which work was intended to be and was covered by the price paid for flagging.

CASE FIFTEENTH.

Paving and flagging Thirty-fifth-street from Tenth to Eleventh avenues. John M. Culkins was Contractor, and John T. Dodge Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor as per said list | $2,145 67
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract was | 1,533 47
A difference against property owners of.. | $612 20

Which is made up from an extra allowance by the Street Commissioner for rock, sand and gravel, to the amount of $612 20, and which, notwithstanding its dubious legality, was included in the assessment against the property owners.

CASE SIXTEENTH.

Paving Forty-seventh-street, from Seventh to Eighth-avenue. Cunningham & Humes were the Contractors, and John T. Dodge Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in October, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due the Contractors, as per said list | $1,282 26
But the amount rightfully and legally due him as per contract was | 749 76
A difference against property owners of.. | $532 50

Which excess, to the extent of $267, is made up from extra allowances by the Street Commissioner for rock excavated and curb and gutter reset, which items, he wrongfully certified, were included in the contract at prices respectively of $2 50 per cubic yard and 10 cents per lineal foot; and the remaining $245 50 gratuitously allowed by the Assessors, and assessed upon the property in interest.

CASE SEVENTEENTH.

Setting curb and gutter, paving and flagging Third-avenue from Forty-second to Forty-ninth streets.—John Fitzpatrick was the Contractor, and John T. Dodge, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in Nov., 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor as per said list | $12,590 46
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per the contract, was | 8,959 17
A difference against property owners of. | $3,631 33

Which excess, to the extent of $2,250 85, is based by the Assessors upon a bill rendered by the Contractor for work done outside of contract, and the charge for which he swears to be just and reasonable; none of which work was returned by the Surveyor, except perhaps one item of filling, amounting in the bill to $745.60, which doubtless was included in the Surveyor's return of work under contract, and its insertion in the bill, therefore, would be tantamount to a double charge. But after allowing that bill in full, there remains of the over-assessment a balance of $1,380 33 to account for which there is nothing upon or accompanying the returns, and the amount seems to have been added by the Assessors for the benefit of the Contractor.

CASE EIGHTEENTH.

Paving, resetting curb and gutter, and laying crosswalks in Fifty-second-street, between Broadway and Eighth-avenue. C. Smith was the Contractor, and John T. Dodge Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in November, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the contractor, as per said list | $1,269 44
But the amount rightfully and legally due him, as per contract, was | 764 74
A difference against property holders of.. | $504 70

Which excess, to the extent of $100, is made up from an extra allowance by the Street Commissioner for 80 feet of wooden culvert built, which he wrongfully certified was embraced in contract, at price of $2 per foot. There are no data upon the returns furnished to the Assessors upon which to found the balance of the above over-assessment, ($404 70,) and it stands, therefore, like other cases preceding, an apparent gratuity to the Contractor. This case also exhibits an assessment of $90 for inspection fees, where no inspector was allowed by the ordinance.

CASE NINETEENTH.

Paving Thirty-seventh-street, from Tenth to Eleventh avenue. Charles Devlin was the Contractor, and John T. Dodge Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to Contractor, as per said list | $1,945 76
But the amount rightly and legally due him, as per contract, was | 797 76
A difference against property owners of.. | $545 00

Of this excess, $300 is an extra allowance by Street Commissioner for rock excavated, but the remainder ($245 is unaccounted for by any data upon or accompanying the returns furnished to the Assessors and like similar cases preceding, stands gratuitously.

CASE TWENTIETH.

Paving and flagging Fortieth-street from Tenth to Eleventh avenues, W. A. Cunningham was Contractor and R. Boyle, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor as per said list | $1,709 46
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract was | 1,402 00
A difference against property owners of.. | $307 50

Which excess is made up from an extra allowance by the Street Commissioner for rock excavation and curb and gutter reset, which items of work he wrongfully certified were included in the contract at prices respectively of $1.00 per cubic yard and 11 cents per lineal foot.

CASE TWENTY-FIRST.

Flagging and setting curb and gutter in Fifty-fifth-street from First to Third avenues, D. Gallagher was the Contractor and R. Graves, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to Contractor as per said list | $2,697 40
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract was | 2,297 40
A difference against property owners of.. | $400 00

Which is made up from an extra allowance by the Street Commissioner for rock excavated, which he wrongfully certified was included in the contract at the price of $2 per cubic yard.

CASE TWENTY-SECOND.

Regulating, paving, (Belgian,) setting curb and gutter in Duane-street, from Broadway to Hudson-street. C. J. Booth was the Contractor, who subsequently assigned contract to John Pettigrew, May 5, 1856, and Edward Boyle was Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due Contractor as per said list | $10,502 19
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract was | 9,367 27
A difference against property owners of.. | $1,134 92

Which excess is entirely unaccounted for by any data furnished from the returns which the Assessors had in hand, and the only inference therefore that can be drawn in regard to the over-assessment is that the Assessors made it a gratuity to the Contractor at the expense of the property owners.

The following statement of work done as per surveyor's return, and other vouchers calculated at contract prices, will show the full amount due the Contractor.

2,022.8 cubic yards earth excavated, at 31c.	$626 84
4,841.73 square yards paving, at $1 60	7,746 76
615.40 square feet bridge stone, at 22c.	179 32
700.72 square feet bridge stone, reland, at 4c.	28 03
922.80 square feet crosswalks, at 30c.	276 84
1,115 lineal feet of curb set, at 42c.	468 32
1,006.8-12 lineal feet of curb reset, at 4½c.	45 30
Emptying vault	14 00
Total	$9,387 27

The sum of $135 is also assessed against the property owners for inspector's fees in this case, notwithstanding the ordinance denied the appointment of an Inspector.

CASE TWENTY-THIRD.

Flagging Thirty-sixth-street, from Sixth to Lexington-avenue, and laying bridge stones between Fourth and Lexington-avenues. Cunningham & Humes, Contractors, and Robert J. Dodge, Surveyor. The assessment list confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractors, as per said list | $1,055 27
But the amount legally and rightfully due them, as per contract, was | 805 27
A difference against property owners of.. | $250 00

Which is made up from an extra allowance by the Street Commissioner for grading, which he certifies to as amounting to that sum, ($250.)

CASE TWENTY-FOURTH.

Flagging Thirty-sixth-street, from Broadway to Eleventh-avenue. Stewart Elder was Contractor, and R. Graves, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractor, as per said list | $1,469 02
But the amount legally and rightfully due to him, as per contract, was | 1,219 02
A difference against property owners of | $250 00

For which excess there is nothing to show upon the face of the returns furnished to the Assessors, and therefore, like the other similar over-assessments, it appears entirely gratuitous.

CASE TWENTY-FIFTH.

Regulating, paving, setting curb and gutter and flagging Sixty-first-street from Second to Third avenues. John Quin was Contractor, and Edwin Smith, Surveyor. The assessment list was confirmed in December, 1856. The Assessors made the amount due to the Contractors, as per said list | $5,498 61
But the amount rightly and legally due him as per contract, was | 1,932 70
A difference against property owners of.. | $3,533 91

Which, to the extent of $429 35, is made up from an extra allowance by the Street Commissioner for curb and gutter reset, gravel furnished and circular corner, which he wrongfully certified were included in the contract at prices respectively of 20 cents per lineal foot, 60 cents per cubic yard, and $5 for each circular corner. The remainder of the above over-assessments ($3,204 56) stand unsupported by any data upon the returns furnished to the Assessors, and they alone can say how so large an excess was made out. Inspection fees to the amount of $85 50 were also assessed upon the property owners interested in this work, although the ordinance disallowed the appointment of an Inspector.

CONCLUDING LIST OF VICTIMS.

The Republican of the 29th says:

"The clearing away of the ruins of the Pacific Hotel was finished yesterday. No more bodies were exhumed, and the extent of the disaster can now be arrived at with some degree of certainty. Mrs. Hubbard, the lady who had her under jaw broken in two places, one of her legs fractured, and the knee-cap of the other dislocated, expired yesterday morning at the Sisters' Hospital, having lost her consciousness on the preceding evening only. Her remains will be conveyed to her friends in Boston. The deceased now number nineteen, of whom only ten have been identified, as follows: Henry H. Rochester and T. Hart Strong, of Rochester, N. Y.; infant child of Jos. Jones. Bruce McNitt, Paul S'elnestel, Miss H. Hunter, St. Louis; Evans J. Watkins, Columbus, Ohio; Ephraim Doane, Chicago; Mrs. H. Hubbard, Boston, and J. Vagoner."

On the 24th, James F. Geary and Elisha Hayes died from the effects of their injuries, making a total of twenty-one lives lost. The funeral ceremonies of the victims were performed on the 24th, under the supervision of the Committee of Citizens. The firemen joined the procession in large numbers.

The remains of T. Hart Strong and Henry H. Rochester, of Rochester, arrived in that city on the 26th, and were followed to the grave by a large concourse of friends.

DR. TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA
Is at this season most invaluable as a Renovator and PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD.
It not only creates new, rich and pure blood, but it will effectually carry off all putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, impart a tone and vigor to the whole system, and KEEP THE BLOOD PURE.
One great recommendation for using this Sarsaparilla is that every bottle of it is manufactured under the direct superintendence of the most celebrated Chemist and Physician in this country, and his certificate attached to each bottle guarantees that it is "PURELY VEGETABLE AND WITHOUT MERCURY."
DR. JAMES R. CHILTON,
There has never yet been a medicine presented to the public which has so effectually sustained its character for "PURIFYING THE BLOOD AS DR. TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA," and the fact that it has entirely superseded all other preparations claiming the same properties, alone speaks volumes in its favor.
THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.
Only purify the Blood, and disease must vanish.

[illegible] expressed, [illegible] in my letter of acceptance of the [illegible] of Kansas, and reiterated in my inaugural [illegible] that the consent of the people to [illegible] Constitution must only properly be manifested by a [illegible] vote for or against its adoption. Indeed, [illegible] in what other way can it ever be known that the people [illegible] Constitution unless [illegible] for or against its adoption? [illegible] December last, addressed to me [illegible] the question of [illegible] Constitution, as [illegible] to me as regards the [illegible] Kansas, and referred to my inaugural [illegible] that on such conditions [illegible] to Kansas.

[illegible] that the President, in his Message, [illegible] but only that his instructions [illegible] of the Constitution [illegible] but also that he [illegible] and the Constitution itself would have [illegible] to the vote of the people, and that in [illegible] to have been done. But, [illegible] his Message of December last, to my [illegible] first developed the astonishing fact that the President considered that notwithstanding the Slavery question was required to be submitted [illegible] the people. I do not mean to [illegible] of our country with wilful [illegible] but this I do say, as to [illegible] which I have published again [illegible] in my letter of acceptance, reiterated in my inaugural address, and various other [illegible] and all Mr. Buchanan said [illegible] I never would [illegible] the consent of adverse [illegible] the Constitution for ratification or [illegible] of the people. This, with me, was a [illegible] the only fair, just, peaceful [illegible] of settling the difficulties [illegible]

[illegible] reluctance, and accompanied [illegible] and after repeated refusals, that I [illegible] to go to Kansas; but upon no [illegible] I would have accepted the mission [illegible] above [illegible] and if the President had stated to me that [illegible] the only one required to be submitted [illegible] to the people, he very well knows, [illegible] Cabinet well know, and all my friends [illegible] at that date know, that on [illegible] I never would have gone to Kansas.

[illegible] of Kansas always [illegible] from first to last to the President, I [illegible] as regards the submission of the Constitution to the vote of the people, [illegible] the President frankly admits [illegible] Message, prevented a sanguinary [illegible] in June last. This revolution [illegible] Kansas with blood and [illegible] have been marked by all those [illegible] a civil war, which must [illegible] Union and Territories, and [illegible] the ruin of our beloved [illegible] Union, have been thus happily averted? [illegible] the disastrous consequences averted? [illegible] the Free-State party, guided by the President's [illegible] the vote of the people, [illegible] Constitution [illegible] alternative vote to suppress this revolution in the bud, or by submitting the question of the adoption of the Constitution as above stated, and pledging myself to assist in giving a fair election for the people of the Territorial Legislature in the then ensuing October. These pledges and these alone, it is conceded, prevented revolution and civil war.

And why should they not now be redeemed? For myself, these pledges have been thus far the most faithfully redeemed, and they will be redeemed by me, if necessary, with the last drop of my life's blood, and to the latest hour of my existence. These were pledges well known to the President and all his Cabinet. They were pledges given by me in good faith, and my assessment of them now on my part, with the people had accepted and acted upon them, would be to cover myself with infamy and dishonor. Whatever, then, may be the action of the wavering, weak, or corrupt, menace and proscription have no terrors for me. I will continue to tread the path where conscience and duty call me, regardless of all consequences or sacrifices, personal or political.

[illegible] the case now exempt from these pledges and [illegible] consequence, is it true that the people, in forming a State Constitution, are only to decide the slavery question? But it comes to this, that the people of the Territories are to decide only the destiny of their Africans as may be in their limits, and not even all those for greater rights which concern the liberty, property, and happiness of a free people? Are they, then, to be regarded as so degraded above the free negroes of the Northern States, as to be deemed incapable of exercising sovereign capacity on all the subjects that concerned their own welfare, and not only upon the fate of that single race which happened to be within their boundaries? And is it true that the people, in inchoate Free States can modify, nay reject any part of their State Constitution, but that this can be done in inchoate Slave States only, and then only as regards this one particular institution? The Kansas and Nebraska bill declares it to be "the true intent and meaning of the act to leave the people thereof perfectly free to form and regulate their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the Constitution of the United States." Now, the President in his December Message admits that the term "people," as here used, means what it says, the people themselves in their sovereign capacity (as contradistinguished from the Legislature) in voting for or against the ratification of a State Constitution. But he says the phrase "domestic institutions," in the plural, means only one institution, namely, that of Slavery, and that the term "domestic institutions" most emphatically includes them all, because extending in words equally as to all the Territories of the Union, whether slave or not, or how? Why, enabling the people to form a State Constitution. The word "form" is in the bill. Wherever spoke of forming the institution of Slavery? This word most clearly implies the daring of his announcements thereof.

Blind TOM, who is pronounced to be "the only original pianist in existence," and eight years of age, is giving concerts at the Masonic Hall, Augusta, Ga.

The musical critic of the Dispatch, who never seems to go anywhere, but patiently chews the cud of other people's remarks, calls our notice of Dr. GUILMETTE's concert an "exaggeration" and a "puff," because we declared the quartet playing to be the best we have had in this City. Said critic says he heard something in the dining-room of the Astor House some years ago which must have been better. His opinion would be entitled to a small amount of consideration if he had heard the playing to which we referred. Concerning Miss MILLER, we consider that lady, in what we have heard, far better than LOUISA PYNE, who deliriated sadly during her sojourn here. We volunteer these remarks out of personal regard to the highly superior critic in question.

Miss DEAN, the sister of Mrs. JULIA DEAN HAYNE, made a successful début in concert at Buffalo last week. She is said to possess a good voice, but to be somewhat deficient in expression.

Mrs. AVONIA JONES has taken her farewell benefit at Louisville, where she played a highly successful engagement. One of the papers says, "Bouquets were showered profusely at her feet, and she retired reading beneath her laurels." One would suppose the bouquets at her feet would have propped her up.

JAMES BENNETT is on his way to America to join Mrs. BARNOW's forces at the Boston Athenæum. The Misses GONSHERER have retired from the Princess Theatre, Melbourne, Australia, after playing seventy-six consecutive nights to large and brilliant audiences. Miss MARY PROVOST, a talented American actress, a favorite, by-the-by, in California, succeeds these ladies in the management of the house.

Mr. HOWARD BOOTH is playing an engagement at the Richmond, Va., theatre.

The third concert of the Philharmonic Society comes off on Saturday at the Academy of Music.

Mr. GUSTAVUS CARTER broke his arm on Wednesday last, and is at present unable to appear in public.

Mrs. JULIA DEAN HAYNE has reached New-Orleans from Galveston.

On the 24 of February Mr. and Mrs. JOHN WOOD made their seventeenth appearance at Maguire's Opera House in San Francisco.

Miss EMMA STANLEY and Mr. C. K. HAZEN were preparing to leave California for a tour round the world.

Obituary.

A private letter from Bishop Payne, received in Philadelphia, and written from Cape Coast Castle, Jan. 1, mentions the death of Mrs. Payne on the 4th of December.

Intelligence has been received at Boston of the death of Mrs. Harriet Harding Williams, a Missionary of the American Board at Mosul, on the 25th of December. She was the daughter of Rev. Sewall Harding, of the Congregational Board of Publication.

Mrs. Mary Bronson, wife of the late Harmon Bronson, died in Twinsburg, Summit County, Ohio, on the 19th ult., aged 80 years and two months. Mrs. Bronson was one of the earliest emigrants to Lorain County, and a native of Connecticut.

STEAM ON THE HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.—The Aldermanic Committee on Railroads met yesterday afternoon, when the proposition was taken of discontinuing the use of steam on the Hudson River Railroad, below Fifty-ninth-street, on the Eleventh-avenue. Alderman McGrath presented a remonstrance against the use of steam. Mr. C. H. SPEERS, Jr., remarked that a large amount of testimony had been taken, and he recommended that the Committee should examine it. The Committee then adjourned.

MRS. CHARLES HOWARD AND LITTLE CORDELIA HOWARD.—Both these popular favorites reappear at Barnum's Museum to-day. Mrs. CHARLES HOWARD this afternoon, and little CORDELIA and her parents this evening. Mrs. CHARLES HOWARD sings a beautiful song and CORDELIA dances a hornpipe, besides appearing in three parts in one piece. Fail not to witness these rare attractions.

A Whale! A Whale!

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Saturday, Feb. 27, 1858.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

At noon to-day the horn sounded through the streets, which is the signal to look out for a whale. In a few minutes tough old whalemen enough had mustered on the beach to man several boats, and push out into the surf in chase of three whales which were spouting in the leisurely offing. After an exciting but brief chase, the lance touched the life of one of the three, who spouted claret, and then turned up dead. He was towed to shore, and will make—the judges say—40 barrels of oil. A SPECTATOR.

AN UNFOUNDED RUMOR.—A number of persons having been employed recently cutting ice from some of the stagnant ponds in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, a rumor was put in circulation and gained credence with many in Brooklyn, that the Ice Companies were procuring ice from these impure sources to supplying their customers. The rumor has this foundation—no other. The ice thus procured is used by provision packers in New-York, in curing meat. They place it around the barrels which contain the brine and pickle, for the purpose of keeping it cool, but the ice does not come in contact with the meat.

MONDAY, March 1—P. M.

The Official Averages of the Banks in the City of New-York for the past week, ending Saturday, Feb. 27, the particulars of which are advertised by each Bank separately on another page of this paper, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous weekly statement of Feb. 20:

Increase in Loans	$[illegible]
Increase in Specie	342,619
Decrease in Circulation	11,[illegible]
Decrease in Undrawn Deposits	$74,[illegible]

Including the Clearing-House operations of the week—which, from the extra business made by the reopening of the New-York Central transfers, and the increasing activity in the checks and dealings of the Stock Brokers, average $15,657,056 per day, against $14,769,565 on the previous statement—and the Sub-Treasury statement of Saturday afternoon, the following is the general comparison with last Monday, and also with the corresponding date of last season:

GENERAL AVERAGES.

	Feb. 27, 1858.	Feb. 27, 1858.	Feb. 28, 1857.
Capital	$[illegible]	$[illegible]	$[illegible]
Loans	111,187,717	108,799,137	109,799,724
Specie	10,[illegible]	21,[illegible]	31,416,976
Circulation	6,180,275	6,[illegible]	5,542,618
Gross Deposits	95,173,200	97,[illegible]	95,779,[illegible]
Exchanges	30,646,213	15,[illegible]	14,[illegible]
Undrawn	16,657,[illegible]	71,[illegible]	72,[illegible]
In Sub-Treasury	15,316,766	3,[illegible]	3,[illegible]

The general movement of the last week shows little increased disposition to borrow money at bank, notwithstanding the steady increase in the ability of the banks to lend on moderate terms. The Specie line is again up, and the average figure, without much, if any aid from the California remittance of $1,640,459, is the highest ever before reported, say $21,658,694. With the remittance referred to, which went into bank on Saturday afternoon and this morning, the actual reserve to-day is at least $23,000,000. The export demand for Wednesday's steamer promises to be very light, and most of the California Bullion has been ordered into coin at the Assay Office. The steamer sails direct from this port, but at so early an hour in the morning, 8 o'clock, as to render the posting of letters to-morrow evening, imperative. In the absence of the inward mail by the America, at Boston, which will not be delivered here until to-morrow morning, the business in Exchange drags to-day, and the rates for Sterling are down to 108¾@109¼ for first-class bills, the extreme figure being almost nominal. Some prime Bank signatures are offered at 109¼ ⅌ cent., and a parcel of accepted bills, (London bankers,) due 18th March, equal to about 3 days' sight, was done at 109¼ ⅌ cent. France without change. Money easy.

On the Stock Exchange, the English and California advices, added to the previous buoyant feeling, have established a further rise of about two per cent. on most of the list, and from 3 to 5 ⅌ cent. on the exceptional cases, such as Rock Island, Michigan Southern Preferred, and Hudson River. The first-named rose from 82 to 85; the second, from 50 to 58, and the last from 33¼ to 37, closing about 36¼ ⅌ cent. The dealings in nearly all the other Railroad Shares were large, the greatest strength being shown by New-York Central, the par of which seems likely soon to be attained, judging from the general confidence of the Street and of outside buyers in the established dividend-paying character of the Stock, and the able conduct of the details of the office at Albany. The business in New-York and Erie shares was large at the advance of 1¼@2 ⅌ cent., the Stock closing 36¼, against 34¼ on Saturday. The management are to-day paying, in part, and in the order of presentation, the March coupons due on the mortgages of 1859 and 1863, and no doubt is entertained that in the course of the month all will have been settled. As a considerable portion of the cash installment on the new mortgage is yet to come in, this is approaching as near to the full resumption of payment as could have been expected. The past-due obligations of the Company have been nearly all retired, and few creditors appear to desire to abate even 2½ or 5 ⅌ cent. to cash their claims through third parties. After some fluctuations at the Second Board, the general market left off firm, and, with few exceptions, at the fullest prices of the day; New-York Central 94, and the other Road Shares in proportion.

The Sub-Treasury received to-day $92,810; disbursed $424,759, and held at the close $3,089,492. The large disbursement was principally on some drafts of the Department, which had been held back for some time after certification, and are believed to have been counted heretofore as cash in the Bank averages.

We understand the traffic on the Chicago and Rock Island Road for February will show an increase of about $20,000 on last season.

We notice with pleasure that Mr. JASPER CORNING, late of CORNING & Co., has resumed business in connection with his son, under the style of JASPER CORNING & SON.

The following circular, in regard to the California Debt, will be found interesting to bondholders:

NEW-YORK, Monday, March 1, 1858.

The undersigned are prepared to transport to California the old State Bonds, exchange the same, and return here with greatest possible dispatch. We will undertake, for a fixed price, to transport, exchange, and return said bonds, agreeing, in case of loss, to be at trouble of procuring new issue, or parties can mail to our house in Sacramento, at their own risk, have the same exchanged and returned in same way. For rates, inquire at our office. Having our own houses at San Francisco, and also at Sacramento, and sending special messenger by every steamer, we are prepared to do this business with greater safety and promptness than other houses. The bonds do not leave our hands until returned to New-York. The past-due coupons are purchased at current rates. The act authorizing the exchanges (a copy of which will be furnished on application at our office) provides for the funding of the past-due coupons, when presented in sums of $500. We will sell sums under $500, remit proceeds less exchange, or buy to fill fractions, and receive pay here without commission. WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
No. 62 Broadway.

The Treasury Department held subject to draft at the close of February $4,015,444 in coin, besides a revenue of about $1,500,000 of the first issue of Treasury Notes.
